Dr. Gifford Takes Stand to Defend Malpractice Suit

Describes Treatment Given to Gust Gunther Following Amputation of His Leg—Dr. Chandler, Who Performed Amputation, Testifies Treatment and Methods are Approved by Medical Profession

The action in the Supreme court brought by Gust Gunther to recover $25,000 damages from Dr. B. W. Gifford of Saugerties for malpractice was continued Wednesday afternoon before Judge Russell and a jury. Following the noon recess Judge William D. Cunningham, who is trying the action for plaintiff together with Amos Van Etten, rested his case. The defense's first witness called was Dr. Gifford who gave a detailed story of just what he did following his receiving a message to call at the Gunther home on November 7, 1923, when Mr. Gunther insisted a bad cut on his foot while trimming a tree in his yard.

Dr. Gifford told in detail of the treatment which followed, of how Mrs. Gunther, according to the story of witness, refused to have another physician come in for consultation when the case became serious and how finally she consented to have Dr. Mark O'Meara called in consultation. Dr. Gifford also testified that when the case had arrived at a grave stage and after he recommended amputation and asked that another doctor be called in to consult with him, she finally consented to have Dr. George F. Chandler come. The witness told how after Dr. Chandler diagnosed the case as a critical one and informed Mrs. Gunther that the only hope was amputation, she would not give her consent. Consent was finally secured by Dr. Chandler from the injured man himself and an operation was performed and the leg amputated four inches below the knee.

Says Instruments Were Sterilized. The charge made by the plaintiff that proper sterilization of the instruments had not been made prior to the first treatment by Dr. Gifford was denied by Dr. Gifford who told in detail what methods he used in caring for the wound and in preparing his instruments before he cared for the wound some two hours after it had been inflicted.

Several very interesting situations arose during the afternoon session and three times during the afternoon H. H. Fleming, who appears for defendant, asked for a mistrial and the withdrawal of a juror following questions put to witness by Judge Cunningham in his cross-examination. The motions were denied by the court and the trial proceeded.

Dr. Chandler Testifies.

Following Dr. Gifford's testimony Dr. George F. Chandler was called as the defendant's first expert witness. To the hypothetical question propounded by Mr. Fleming, which included all of the elements and facts pertaining to the treatment by Dr. Gifford, Dr. Chandler testified that the methods and remedies used by Dr. Gifford were all that could be done and were approved and standard treatments recognized by the medical profession.

In relating his experiences with blood poisoning Dr. Chandler stated that he had had blood poisoning seven times himself and in one of the cases he had lost a finger which he exhibited to the jury as evidence of his statement. He also stated that Mr. Gunther was lucky to be alive today after the case which he had and Dr. Chandler said he considered himself lucky too, as blood poisoning was a serious matter, depending on the physical condition of the patient, and one which was hard to combat.

Court recessed after 5 o'clock with Dr. Chandler on the stand.

What Dr. Gifford Fomel.

Dr. Gifford after stating his qualifications told of his being called to the Gunther home on November 7, 1923. He arrived to find a cut some four inches in size on the foot and the patient weak from loss of blood and shock. When he arrived Mr. Gunther had a tourniquet about the leg which had been bleeding for a few days. There was blood on the floor and a large pool of blood was near the bed. After examining the wound to determine its character, the tourniquet was removed and blood flowed freely again.

The First Treatment.

Dr. Gifford then told in detail how he washed his hands when he came in. He later washed them with alcohol and poured iodine on them. He also used a solution of iodine and alcohol in washing his hands and also how he went to the kitchen and requested hot water and a pan to boil instruments. There was wood and paper there and he kindled a fire and set a basin of water on and boiled his instruments for about 15 minutes. While they were being sterilized he went back to the room where Gunther was and dipped his clamps in alcohol before clamping the arteries and blood vessels to stop the flow of blood while he attended to the wound. After boiling the instruments for some time he dipped them in alcohol and dressed the wound and sewed it up and also washed the leg with an iodine solution and also poured iodine in the wound. At one time when he poured iodine in the wound, Mr. Gunther moved and spilled a basin of water in which he had first washed his hands. He requested another basin of water and used that later in washing up. The material used in sewing up the cut was sterilized and all of his instruments after being cleaned were laid out on sterilized gauze for use.

Used Tube for Draining.

He inserted a rubber drain tube in the wound which was deep in the Police Believe Hickman Is On Way to Canada

Man Identified as Hickman Eludes Police Net After Passing $20 Bill on Seattle Merchant—Steals Car of F. R. Peck in Hollywood.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 22 (P).—Belief that William Edward Hickman, accused abductor and slayer of little Marian Parker in Los Angeles, had eluded the hastily-drawn police net set for him here and had headed for Canada, was admitted by officers here today after a night of search for the youthful fugitive.

Twelve hours after a man identified as Hickman appeared in a Seattle haberdashery and passed one of the $20 bills which the abductor had collected from Parry M. Parker, father of the girl, the combined police forces of a dozen cities of the Pacific northwest had been unable to lay their hands on the suspect.

His apparent escape from the city despite the fact that police were put on his trail a few minutes after he purchased some clothing at the store and slipped out into the night, left the searchers with but one especially important place to watch—the Canadian border.

Immigration and custom officials along the border were given instructions to leave nothing undone in their patrol of the international line. George V. Willoughby, haberdasher, positively identified pictures of Hickman as those of the customer, who passed the $20 bill last night.

Herman Cline, chief of Los Angeles detectives, was positive, he said by telephone, that the Seattle suspect was Hickman.

Stole Car in Hollywood.

Los Angeles, Dec. 22 (P).—William E. Hickman, accused kidnaper-slender, held up F. R. Peck in Hollywood Sunday night, taking his sedan, which was seen yesterday by two Portland, Ore., residents who identified Hickman as the driver.

Peck was alone in the car when a man whom he afterwards identified as Hickman, approached him and took the car away at the point of a pistol. This information was revealed by D. L. Laikin, business associate of Peck, who was en-route to San Diego today.

Associated Press dispatches from Portland early today revealed that two Portland youths reported having traveled from Lamoine, Calif., northward with a man they thought to be Hickman. They said the driver appeared very nervous and looked behind constantly as if fearing pursuit.

The youths reported that the license card on the car indicated it to be owned by a man named Peck of Los Angeles.

Clair Wants a Trial by Jury

Man Arrested For Reckless Driving In Crashing Head-on Into a Trolley Car Has Hearing Adjourned to January 12.

William Clair through his attorney, Chris J. Flanagan, demanded a jury trial in police court this morning when arraigned before Judge Shufeldt to stand trial on a charge of reckless driving in crashing head-on into a trolley car on Broadway recently. The demand was granted, a jury drawn and the case set down for trial the evening of January 12.

Motorman Walter Dunlap and Conductor James Diamond of the trolley car were slightly injured. The only passenger in the car at the time was Miss Cora Rightmyer, who escaped unhurt. The trolley car was badly damaged. Clair was cut on the chin and the wound was sewed up by Dr. Frank Eastman.

Xmas Paroles For 150 Convicts

Montgomery Ala., Dec. 22 (P).—One hundred and fifty state convicts, all of them serving long sentences and many of them lifers, tomorrow will enjoy their first liberty since their commitment to the penitentiary.

Governor Bibb Graves has issued them Christmas paroles, each for a period of seven days, effective December 25.

All of the men and women to be paroled are prisoners with good conduct records. One of the men receiving a parole, Frank Adams, who is serving a life sentence, has not had a moment of freedom under the parole privilege, since his conviction and sentence 36 years ago.

Texas Official Resigns.

New York, Dec. 22 (P).—Amos L. Beaty, chairman of the board of the Texas Corporation, one of the largest so-called independent oil companies in the country, today announced his resignation as chairman and as a member of the board of directors.

Brown's Condition Fair.

The condition of Arthur Brown, city employee, who was injured Wednesday morning by the Fordson tractor, when the seat on the machine broke, is reported as fair at the Kingston City Hospital, and it is expected that he will recover.

Arrested as Hit And Run Driver

Patsy Amendola, 16 Years Old, of Glasco, Charged With Driving Car That Crashed Into Lurie's Auto—George Rohner Again Arrested.

Patsy Amendola, 16, son of Jose Amendola of Glasco, was arrested by the police this morning on a warrant sworn out by William Lurie of Wall street charging the youth with reckless driving and also with leaving the scene of an accident without giving his name and address. The hearing was adjourned to January 5 in police court and bail fixed at $250.

Tuesday evening while Mr. and Mrs. Lurie were driving on Wurts street in their Dodge coupe, a Studebaker car crashed into them as they were turning into McKee street. According to Mr. Lurie the offending driver dimmed his lights and then drove away at a rapid speed. He pursued and managed to obtain the license number.

Wednesday it was found that the license number was that issued a local resident who had since traded in the car on a new car. A check up showed that the car had then been sold to Jose Amendola, father of Patsy, and the father was placed under arrest, but the complaint against the father was withdrawn as he was not driving the car at the time of the crash.

George Rohner Arrested.

George Rohner was arrested for public intoxication on Broadway near the city library Wednesday evening. In police court he pleaded guilty and sentence was suspended. He was instructed to leave his wife alone. They are not living together.

Italy Now On Gold Basis

Council of Ministers Enumerate Conditions Permitting Return To Gold Basis—Two Credits Totalling $125,000,000 Will Be Opened.

Rome, Dec. 22 (P).—Italy was on a gold basis today with the lira established at the ratio of nineteen to the dollar. One gold lira will be worth 3.6 paper lira.

The decree of the council of ministers announcing the stabilization marked the culmination of an object indicated by Premier Mussolini in his famous speech at Pesaro more than a year ago. He called then for "a battle for the revaluation of the lira."

The stabilization was the result of negotiations between Benjamin Strong, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York; Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England; Donaldo Stringher, director-general of the Bank of Italy, a group of Anglo-American bankers.

As a result two credits totalling $125,000,000 will be opened. The council of ministers enumerated favorable existing conditions as permitting the return to a gold basis. They were:

The firm discipline and untiring industry of the Italian people. The surplus in the state budget. The settlement of war debts concluded in Washington in November, 1925, and in London in January, 1926, chiefly by transferring the Dawes plan.

That the international balance of payments was favorable to Italy. Stability of the exchange for eight months.

Wages and the cost of living brought proportionate to the stability of exchange. The gold reserve and foreign currencies possessed by the Bank of Italy, which guarantee the new gold currency.

BOY SCOUTS AID IN CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE

That the Boy Scouts are always ready to lend a helping hand has again been ably demonstrated in Ulster county. There are a great many duties connected with the publicity for the Christmas seal sale, and as in the past, Miss Hagelweide, the county tuberculosis nurse, enlisted the aid of the Boy Scouts, who have rendered valuable help in distributing posters and otherwise aiding with publicity.

This service was a real one and is greatly appreciated by the Tuberculosis Committee.

Presentation of Bibles.

An interesting part of the Christmas service on Sunday morning at the Rondout Presbyterian Church will be the presentation of Bibles. Each of the ten members who united with the church at the last communion upon profession of their faith will be presented with a beautiful copy of the large type Teacher's Edition of the American Standard Bible, containing a concise Bible dictionary, Concordance and numerous outline and colored maps.

Our Growing Population.

The following births have been reported to the board of health: Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Rathgeber, 221 Franklin street, a daughter, Esther Jane, at Kingston City Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Snyder, 74 Hoffman street, a son, William, at Benedictine Hospital.

I. J. E. Christmas Dance.

Invitations have been issued for the I. J. E. Fraternity Christmas formal dance to be held at Golden Rule Inn, Monday. This dance will attract many of the college students, home for the holidays, as well as their friends.

Jail Threat for Cunningham by Judge Russell

Lawyer Told He Must Sit Down When Ordered by Court or Go to Jail—Court Officer to Enforce Order—Peace Follows.

Judge William D. Cunningham, trial lawyer for Gust Gunther in his action against Dr. B. W. Gifford of Saugerties for malpractice, was threatened with jail during the morning session of the court when Judge Russell, who is presiding at the term, was forced to call upon a court officer to quell a disturbance when Judge Cunningham refused to sit down when so ordered by the court.

It was during the examination of Dr. Mark O'Meara that Mr. Fleming propounded a question to the witness calling for his opinion as to whether the treatment administered by Dr. Gifford was good and customary treatment for the ailment. The question was based upon the testimony given by Dr. Gifford on the stand Wednesday afternoon when he told his story of the treatment from the time he was called on the case until the leg was amputated. On the testimony of Dr. Gifford the witness was asked if his opinion was that the treatment was proper. Mr. Cunningham objected to the form of the question, stating that it was not a hypothetical question but one propounded and based on the actual testimony of the defendant doctor and therefore not admissible.

Judge Russell overruled the objection and stated that the question was "better than a hypothetical question" one to be asked of an expert witness who had heard none of the testimony in regard to the facts. Dr. O'Meara said he had heard Dr. Gifford's testimony and the court allowed the question to stand and the witness to answer, basing his answer on what Dr. Gifford said he had done.

Disobeys Judge Russell.

At that point Judge Cunningham jumped to his feet and began a long objection. Judge Russell rapped for order and instructed Judge Cunningham to sit down. The request, repeated several times, failed in its purpose and Judge Russell ordered Court Officer Henry Hirtzel to Judge Cunningham's side. Before the court officer had arrived at the counsel's table, Judge Cunningham, who had continued his objection in the face of the court's order, had concluded and sat down.

"Sit Down or Go to Jail".

Judge Russell then admonished Judge Cunningham to obey the court orders after that or he would be placed in jail. He said, "Next time I say sit down, sit down or go to jail."

Judge Cunningham then objected to the statement of the court as prejudicial to defendant's case. Overruled.

The case then went on peacefully.

Dr. Chandler Resumes.

Dr. Chandler was the first witness to taken the stand and continued his testimony of Wednesday afternoon. He explained that he had told Mrs. Gunther when her husband was leaving the hospital after the amputation that she need not have another doctor as she appeared to be a good nurse and he told her how to treat the case which was progressing nicely. She said she would not have Dr. Gifford again and asked if Dr. Diebling would be good. It was then Dr. Chandler said she really would need no doctor.

Questioned as to whether he agreed with an authority on the sewing up of wounds Dr. Chandler said he did. He considered it good practice to sew up the Gunther wound as it was in a tendon which had been cut. He said when he told Mrs. Gunther in a letter it was the worst case he ever saw, he was referring to the granuloma. He also said the time which elapsed between the injury and the arrival of the doctor was bad. The tourniquet being on two hours was also a bad thing and he had treated cases where a tourniquet had been on three hours and stopped the flow of blood so that the tissue was injured and amputation had become necessary due to the stoppage of the flow of blood. He considered two hours about the limit for a tourniquet. A tourniquet could do damage if left on too long and too tight.

Dr. Gifford Saw Only Two.

Dr. Gifford was recalled by plaintiff and stated he did not recall seeing anyone at the house when he called on the evening of the first day and administered tetanus anti-toxin. He recalled seeing no one except Mrs. Gunther and the patient.

Dr. O'Meara Takes Stand.

Dr. Mark O'Meara was called. His qualifications were admitted and Judge Cunningham stated that he would admit that Dr. O'Meara was a surgeon of the highest type.

Dr. O'Meara said he was called on the case by Dr. Gifford on November 19. The condition of the patient was generally bad, anemic, and the foot badly swollen and inflamed. The cause was blood poison in the foot and lower leg. He was informed of the treatment and advised a continuation. Three days later he again visited the patient and that day made two incisions in the injured foot to allow drainage where the poison seemed to be localized. He inserted a drain tube. The next time he saw the patient at the Benedictine Hospital was ten days

Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray Sane

Declare State Board of Alienists in Report to Governor—Withholding of Executive Clemency Will Send Them to Chair.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22 (P).—Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray, declared sane by a state board of alienists, stood but one legal step from execution today. Withholding of executive clemency from the two convicted of the slaying of Mrs. Snyder's husband would send them to the electric chair.

The alienist board, unanimous in telling the governor that they found no evidence of an unbalanced mental condition in either Mrs. Snyder or Gray, although they had studied their cases since their confinement in the death house.

The state, through its commissioner of correction, Dr. Raymond F. C. Kiehl, recently refused to allow a Chicago psychiatrist to make an examination of Mrs. Snyder. The woman's counsel declared that she was suffering from neurosis and asked that the psychiatrist be allowed to examine her. The state held that its board of alienists was making an entirely adequate examination of Mrs. Snyder.

The alienist board, a standing organization, is composed of three members chosen from the staffs of state insane institutions. Their fixed duty is to examine all persons condemned to death.

Merchants to Give Christmas Trees

Downtown Business Men's Association Will Give Away Trees Now Used in Decorating Downtown Business Section—Santa Still on the Job.

Santa Claus, guest of the Downtown Business Men's Association, has proven popular with the children while visiting this city. He has listened to many requests for Christmas presents from the little folks and promised to fulfill all requests as near as possible. The merchants are pleased with the way in which the children, many accompanied by their parents, visited Santa. The Downtown Business Men's Association in order to make this Christmas a happy one for all will give the trees now standing in front of the various stores to families who are not in a position to afford one.

Persons who wish to get one of the trees that now form part of the decoration of the downtown section may do so by calling on the merchants. Of course many of the trees have been promised but many remain to be given away and may be had by asking the business men who have the trees in front of their stores. The downtown business men will be glad to hear requests for trees, which will be given away in time to have them in the homes for Christmas. Last year the merchants of the downtown section donated trees by the same method and many children were made happy through their kindness.

Santa Claus will probably be busier than ever on Christmas Eve in the downtown section of Kingston. It is expected that many little folks accompanied by their parents will pay a visit to Santa on that night to place last minute orders. Santa will be glad to hear all. He is seen daily walking about the downtown streets with little folks by the hand and many others following him. He has told about every story ever written about himself to his little friends and probably some that were never heard before about his home at the North Pole.

The Downtown Business Men's Association hopes that every child who has not yet seen Santa Claus will visit him before Christmas. There are but two days left besides tonight.

COLONIAL CHORISTERS SING FOR KINGSTON ROTARIANS.

At the meeting of Rotary Club held Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel a special feature was the singing by the Colonial Chorists of several old French Christmas carols. These French carols, harmonized and translated by Charles F. Manney, have become very popular with English speaking people and are being sung this year in the cathedrals of New York and London. The Colonial Chorists, composed of Mabelle Wicks, soprano; Jeanne Mills, contralto; Joseph Craig, tenor; and Vernon Miller, baritone, accompanied by Ella Eltinge, are coached by Mrs. Lillian Hemstreet of New York, who has an enviable reputation in the art of ensemble singing, and their rendition of the carols under her direction was enthusiastically received by Kingston's Rotarians.

No Intention of Increasing Naval Building Program

King George Declares in Speech Protesting Parliament—Government Will Continue to Base Its Policy on Legal Cooperation with the League

London, Dec. 22 (P).—That the British government has no intention of embarking upon an increase in its naval building program despite the "temporary failure" of the Geneva naval conference was the outstanding feature from the American point of view of King George's speech protesting Parliament today.

A section of the speech dealing with allied war debts emphasized that the policy of the government was to limit its claims on the allies to such an amount as together with the reparations receipts would cover the government's own war debt obligations. It was brought out that war debt funding arrangements had been signed by Great Britain with all the countries concerned except Russia.

After brief sittings of both houses to dispose of certain outstanding bills and the reading of the king's speech, Parliament was prorogued until February 2.

The king said: "The recent meeting of the council at Geneva marked a further stage in this progress. My government will continue to base its policy on loyal cooperation with the league."

A conference with representatives of the United States of America and Japan was held at Geneva at which delegates of my government put forward proposals for the future limitation of armaments, which if accepted, would have led to substantial reductions in naval strength and cost. I regret that though much community of view was revealed, it was not possible to reach a general agreement. But in spite of this temporary failure, my government has no intention of embarking upon an increase in their naval building program which is based upon a considered view of the defensive needs of my widespread empire."

Autoists Should Get Plates Now

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22 (P).—Automobile owners who have not yet secured registration for 1928 are urged to cooperate with the bureau of motor vehicles by securing new number plates at once. Those who defer until next week the simple but necessary duty of securing new plates should remember that the business week will be shortened to four and a half days. Motorists who wait too long before making application may not be able to secure 1928 plates in time to drive on January 1. The last hours of the year usually are accompanied by a demand which overtaxes the facilities of the bureau offices, causing annoying delay. This may be avoided by acting at once.

Under an amendment to the Highway Law proof of ownership of all cars will be required. If application for renewal of registration is made before December 27 the renewal stub of the 1927 certificate or a duplicate must be submitted. If the application is made on or after December 27 and the renewal stub is lost a bill of sale may be accepted as proof of ownership. A bill of sale must accompany an application for the registration of a new car.

FLOODS OF 1927 TAKE BIG TOLL

Millions Lost in 15 States—457 Persons Perish
in Waters.

Washington.—An area larger than the combined states of Massachusetts, New Jersey, Delaware and Rhode Island, has been under water in the floods of 1927.

From the bottom of Iowa to the deltas of Louisiana and all across New England, rivers and streams left their banks, causing damage and putting residents of the lowlands to flight in parts of 15 states, taking a toll of millions of dollars, bringing death to 457 persons and starting the nation into contemplation of a comprehensive program for the control of flood waters.

In the Mississippi valley and in New England, the two major centers of disaster, the American Red Cross has cared for upward of 60,000 refugees.

Outside of those who sustained themselves in relief camps, and of this number 90,000 are still dependent upon the Red Cross for subsistence in Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi five months after the receding of the waters.

Of the 15,000 square miles of land flooded by the swelling of rivers and the breaking of levees, 1,000 square miles was in New England and the rest in the Mississippi valley. Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Oklahoma, Mississippi and Louisiana felt the deluge in the latter region. Vermont, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut and parts of Maine and Rhode Island were affected by the New England flood, which came in November, five months after the Central and Southern floods had passed their crest.

Rains Cause Floods.
The Mississippi valley floods began in the last two weeks of 1926 and lasted well into June of 1927. Torrential rains swelled streams until every effort to keep them in their banks was futile, but in most cases the rivers rose slowly, making evacuation possible on a scale which greatly reduced loss of life.

As the head of water moved down

the Mississippi from the Ohio and Missouri rivers and tributaries, thousands of men in scores of localities braved natural or artificial barriers to hold back the deluge. At Louisiana, Arkansas, Illinois, and in many other communities these efforts were epic, even though they failed in the end to stem the tide.

Louisiana bore the brunt of the Mississippi flood, and territory was inundated that had not been under water for 40 years. So great was the crevasse of the flood to the city of New Orleans that an artificial levee was made to relieve the pressure.

Christmas of 1926 in Nashville, Tenn., found more than twenty blocks under water. Arkansas City, Ark., was deluged thrice in spring and summer.

212 Killed in East.
In New England no more damaging inundation ever was felt. The death toll in Vermont and adjacent states was 212, almost as great as the list of 245 dead in the Mississippi valley floods, and property damage was assessed at upward of $50,000,000. Three state capitals were flooded—Montpelier, Vt.; Concord, N. H.; and Hartford, Conn. The little Winoski river in Vermont became a torrent overnight and the dead in its valley alone were counted at 75.

Loss of live stock in both regions mounted to thousands of head. Intangible losses due to consequent stagnation of business added to the total, and in the Central South and the Middle West at least 6,000 square miles of farm lands were so washed by flood waters that they could not be tilled in the summer.

The Red Cross received for Mississippi valley relief more than $17,000,000, of which it had expended in late October some $15,500,000. Although it was called upon for less assistance in New England it appropriated $75,000 for immediate relief there, received $35,000 in voluntary contributions, and found its relief work supplemented by the Vermont and Massachusetts societies of New York, which sent $65,000 and $30,000 respectively into their own states.

Music Traced Back to Rattle in Cavern Den

New York.—The cave man rattling the bones to his savage bride in a prehistoric den had his own music and his own music room, Frank Alvah Parsons, head of the New York school of fine and applied arts, declared in an address at Aeolian hall.

"Music, the most abstract expression in art," he said, "also is the most universal. The cave man and the cannibal; the Gothic saint and the wicked potentate, all loved music and had a room for its enjoyment—the cave man his hut, the savage his jungle, the saint his cathedral and the monarch a room in his palace."

Hutchinson, Kan. — Mail carriers have protested to Postmaster Armour about contents of the street boxes along their routes. One man found a dead snake in one of his boxes the other day. Another reported a live toad jumped at him when he opened a box on his route.

Odd Garden Adornments

Down on the New Jersey coast in a little village close to the sea there is a garden that—instead of the conventional sundial, bird-bath and statue—boasts figure-heads from ships of long ago. These picturesque relics are set with careful consideration and pride where they may be seen to the best advantage.

Among them are a Norse goddess in gold, blue and red, a majestic figure of Neptune with trident intact, and swarthy king or prince. The man owns this unusual garden was at one time the captain of a sailing ship visited many a far-off port.

No Hope That Life Exists on S-4

Dying At 96

The removal of most of the oil from the fuel tanks.

Two coast guard patrol boats were alongside the Paulding to assist in the difficult task of steering the disabled vessel.

Simon Lake, an expert in submarine construction, sent a radio message to the Falcon from his home at Bridgeport, Conn., during the night, stating that there should have been enough air in the torpedo room of the S-4 to last one man 700 hours. He computed that there should have been sufficient to keep six men alive 24-3 hours. The men might be unconscious for many hours before they died, the message said. At eight o'clock this morning they had been apparently 113 hours in their steel prison.

The first diver to descend this morning, William Wickwire, was instructed by Commander Edward Ellsberg, in charge of diving operations, to land on the bow of the S-4, and disentangle an air line and a descending line which had become fouled. He was then to drop over the starboard side of the vessel to the bottom.

The diver was to make his way to the stern of the S-4 to estimate how deep she was imbedded in the mud. He was then to go forward on the starboard side to inspect the damage there and to see how the keel was resting.

Reach Wreckage From Paulding.

Ellsberg said this morning that divers had reached much wreckage from the Paulding on the forward deck of the submarine. This included several frames, two ribs, plating and part of the keel. The bottom of the Paulding's hull cut a hole in the deck of the submarine from a point just aft of the forward gun to a point back of the conning tower.

The Falcon is keeping about ten pounds of pressure through the air line leading to the torpedo room of the S-4. The plan is to blow air down to the submarine for half an hour and then allow it to vent for half an hour.

The air lines are attached to the S-4 tube, or listening device, which serves the purpose of ears for an undersea boat. The tube is a T-shaped contrivance of brass projecting from the deck, and made of brass pipe with rubber flanges at either side of the T, which performs the service of sound magnifiers. These rubber pieces were removed by the divers and the air lines were attached to the brass tube.

NEW LIGHTS AT TRINITY WILL BE USED SUNDAY

The new lighting fixtures which were ordered by Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church six weeks ago and which were designed and executed for Trinity by the Curtis Lighting Company of Chicago will be used for the first time on Sunday, Christmas Day. The installation and use of the new fixtures will complete the program which was initiated the first of August and which included the redecoration of the auditorium interior and the erection of a new organ recess architrave. The new system, designed to illuminate the church without glare or shadows, represents the best efforts of lighting engineers who are internationally known for their church work. Not only do the new fixtures efficiently reveal the beauty of the auditorium at night, they themselves add to it by day.

Won Fame as Poet

Jacques Jasmin, the last of the troubadours, who began life as a barber in Germany, was called the "barber poet." He was well known, and a contemporary versemaker of Paris once, said he "left his presence trickling all over with poetry and vibrating like an Aeolian harp."

BUILDS REPLICA OF CITY OF BETHLEHEM

Michael Amarello of 8 North Wilbur avenue has erected in the front room of his home a large replica of the city of Bethlehem, and surrounding country at the time of the birth of Christ. Every Christmas for the past six or seven years Mr. Amarello has erected this replica gradually adding to it until now it stands on a platform several feet from the floor and takes up three-quarters of the room. The central piece, of course, is the stable with Mary, Joseph and the Three Wise men gathered around the manger. Back of the stable and reaching to the ceiling is a mountain built of green paper and imitation grass. Up and down the mountain runs numerous paths with small coming and going while peacefully by, graze the sheep. Below the manger stretches a valley of beautiful green grass and running through the valley is a small stream of water upon which ducks are "swimming." On either side are four evergreen trees prettily decorated and lighted with colored electric lights. It took Mr. Amarello four days to assemble the village which contains over 150 statues, 100 sheep, 40 or 50 cattle besides the various houses, etc.

Christmas At Trinity Church.

Following the custom of other years an early morning service will be held in Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church at 7 a. m. on Christmas Day when the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered. The session of the Sunday school will be held as usual and at morning worship following, at 11 o'clock the pastor will preach the Christmas sermon. In the evening at 7:30 the Christmas pageant, "The Light of the World," will be presented. In this pageant, which was written by Prof. Augustine Smith of Boston University, about eighty will take part. Its intent is to make vivid the spirit of the older and better known Christmas hymns.

TEXAS AND PROHIBITION

Some weeks ago the handling of a Texas political matter for the New York Times, and the Democratic drive at that time were beginning to wobble, to say the least. "I don't know," and in no less instances to change their views quite openly. For the somewhat forgotten fact that President Wilson vetoed the Volstead act had been revealed to them, and they still believed in, and revered, their Wilson. To what extent this interesting picture was representative we are in no position to decide or even venture an opinion, but we now find what appears to be some measure of confirmation, and is certainly significant of individual change, in a notable editorial announcement of the El Paso Herald.

The Herald, which has been an earnest supporter of prohibition enforcement since the adoption of the 18th amendment, now calls for the repeal of that amendment "on the broad grounds of public necessity." It is convinced that prohibition after a thorough trial has proved a failure and declares that "until we wipe the 18th amendment from the scroll of the Constitution by enacting a repeal amendment not a single profession of faith the American people make, not a single law they enact, will be taken at par." Though this may represent minority opinion in Texas, it must be accepted as a sign of the times. Yet, with the many and powerful forces determined to retain prohibition, the chances of repeal would appear to be slim indeed—forces including the bootleggers, the capitalists, the women, the churches and the grape growers.

THRIFT OR EXTRAVAGANCE.

"Thrift is no longer the greatest economic virtue," says Dr. D. M. Marvin, economist for the Royal Bank of Montreal, "that is the economics of 100 years ago, which was occupied with keeping people from starvation. We do not find that so much of a menace today. Our problem is to keep industry going." Because industry has reached so great a capacity for production, he suggests that perhaps "extravagance is necessary" now. Extravagant spending may take care of overproduction and enable our industrial system to survive.

It doesn't sound so unreasonable when you reflect that "the luxury of today becomes the necessity of tomorrow." We have seen that happen in a thousand ways in these last two or three decades. What may seem extravagance soon becomes normal spending.

So we have come to a time when it is hard to say just what "extravagance" is. Perhaps we can give no better definition than this—that it is extravagant to spend all your income in current living. There still ought to be some margin of saving to accumulate capital or take care of a rainy day. It is a question of how much. Excessive thrift becomes stinginess and makes hard times, defeating its own purpose.

The natural tendency nowadays is for people of all classes to buy more things, and better things, all the time. This progress in living standards is paralleled by progress in industry. It is what makes industrial progress possible.

"DEFECT" IN EDUCATION.

The proposal to erect a memorial at Harvard to the men of that university who lost their lives in the World War was well received and more than $700,000 has been subscribed for the purpose. But the proposal that it take the form of a memorial church has been opposed by one element. The controversy having continued, President Lowell has seen fit to give expression to his view in a notable letter to the Harvard Alumni Bulletin. In his communication he states that he has not found the morals of Harvard students satisfactory. Though not "positively low," they have been "negative," and recognition by the students "that they had a duty in college to prepare themselves, by developing their minds to the utmost, for the future service of the community, has been lacking." The president of Harvard then goes on to say that "the whole defect of our colleges is that 'education has not in itself been a moral purpose in this great body of undergraduates.' It is his conviction, or surmising, that the memorial refers to the memorial of the American colleges and the object of that memorial is to develop a stronger and more positive moral consciousness of the duty of public service, and it can not be divorced from religious and religious, as all the colleges, in like manner, are being developed by a proper physical and moral education. That we lack at Harvard today, a beautiful church to our way of life would be an expression both of our admiration for them and our desire toward moral character.

President Lowell now has a hour to prepare and dispose of them all at one time. A century ago they tried to use or evade each one separately, but now they are not always being successful. The story is the same in light of how a determined fact correspondent caught President John Quincy Adams napping—on a common after trying many times in vain to get an interview. We read "knowing that it was his custom in the warm months to go down to the banks of the Potomac and there to bathe without the formality of a bathing suit, this enterprising lady timed her arrival to coincide with the President's dip, but modestly remained in seclusion until he was in the water. Seating herself on the bank by the Presidential clothing, she thereupon put to him the questions which he had previously sought to evade, and did not leave until he had told her what she wished to know." Whether she held him captive until his lips were blue and his teeth chattered is not stated.

The news comes from Hollywood of movie czar belief that "sex is through as a dominating factor in motion picture production." One of them is quoted: "Sex appeal is all right on the beach, but the public is tired of seeing it on the screen." Sex appeal is immemorial and eternal; what the intelligent public is tired of is the grossness and sameness with which the adultery theme has been employed.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

James W. Barton, M.D.

MECHANICAL VIBRATION OR EXERCISE.

One of the methods now being used to learn the nature of an ailment, and to help correct it, is known as mechanical vibration. By means of electricity to give the power, a little knob like arrangement is used to strike the skin. The strength and speed with which the knob strikes the skin can be regulated by the operator. Now what can a wooden knob striking the skin do to the body?

As you know if you strike or slap your flesh hard enough you can redden it considerably. In fact if you strike it too hard you break down the little vessels and cause a bruise.

However, this redness shows that the blood has been brought to the surface, and that is the idea behind the machine, to increase the volume of blood to any part.

Naturally if more blood is brought to a part, that part is going to be built up, and wastes removed more quickly. In other words the part becomes better nourished.

Therefore, following from that, if blood flows more quickly and in larger amounts, then the heart must be doing more work and likewise the lungs, in getting rid of waste matter and securing more oxygen for the system.

Following this again you can see that other organs in the body will function better, and the whole body receive benefit therefrom.

Is there anything wrong with this electrical vibration treatment?

No, it is an excellent thing for those individuals who are old, weak, perhaps recovering from an illness, and so forth, because it stimulates the whole body.

But what about you? If you are not old, weak, or recovering from an illness, nature has provided a better and more effective way of stimulating every process in your body, building it up, and removing wastes.

Simply by taking a little regular exercise, preferably outdoors. Heart, lungs, intestine, skin, kidneys, every part of you, is not only stimulated but is actually strengthened, because the "sweat of the brow" has always been one of nature's great gifts to man.

COURTESY

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

DAUGHTER, I'll give you a simple rule.

As wise as any you learn at school, though it has to do with a simple thing.
 Not the way you walk, nor the way you sit.
 Not the way you dress—it is just the way you speak to others from day to day.

There are folks we don't like, folks we do.

And we don't know why, but it's surely true.

And yet it's all in the way they speak.

When a thing they wish, or a favor they seek.

It's easy enough to understand: The cultured ask, but the crude command.

There are folks we like, though we hardly know.

Just why it is that we like them so.

There are folks whose voices fall on the ear.

And we don't know why—but it's that, my dear.

Yes, after all, it's a simple test: The crude command the polite request.

The "glumme" people may get a thing, and folks may carry and fetch and bring.

But ask for things with a gracious tone.

And both the thing and a friend you'll own.

In all your asking, the courtesies remember, daughter—remember, please.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

RESPONSIBILITY

THE world calls every day for stout-hearted persons of ability to accept places of responsibility where the burdens are heavy and the duties exacting, but there are few, indeed, who are found acceptable.

When it comes to taking hold of important things, planning, directing and overriding competing forces, men and women are easily wrenched from their self-conceit.

The great majority like to swim loose with the tide. They balk at a stewardship for which they will be held accountable. And it is this lack of courage that keeps them year after year among the trailers.

If you will scan your little horizon a moment, you may find without any special effort that you can number an infinity of acquaintances who might be charged with this lamentable failing.

They are not by any means the worst of human material, but such as they are, they are the stuff out of which Time manufactures his derelicts—odd mixtures of brass and putty, boastful of cleverness and activity. And with all their vaunting they never succeed in being anything but subordinates, plodding along miles behind the head of the procession.

Among the city-bred, these types are growing more common.

The giant office buildings are swarming with milk-and-water young men and women who have no aspiration beyond earning tawdry clothes and nightly seats in tinged shows.

Tidy bridge the lean lapers between pay days with promises to do better, which are never kept. And as they advance towards the autumn of life, they find themselves in a barren land, ruefully looking backward on those who achieved brilliant success, because they were unafraid to accept responsibilities.

The famous among the famous in this country, in fact in every country on the globe, are the men and women who in the springtime of youth faced duty nobly, glad to be answerable for their charges.

They were never wasteful of time, never disrespectful or supercilious. They worked diligently and sought valiantly for a larger sphere, and through studiousness, self-denial and unyielding effort they found it.

Somewhere in the stars battle of life, others of like determination are following the footsteps of these successful men and women, sure of reaching their destination, for they have bought tickets to the end of the route. Are you among them?

IN choosing a gift, ask yourself two questions: What should the gift say? And for how long should it continue the saying?

For a gift is a message from the heart. Its mission is to tell, in beauty, comfort and service, what the giver would tell in words.

Choose the gift, therefore, in accordance with the message you would have it carry.

If you intend merely a pretty compliment for the day or occasion, perhaps you may appropriately choose a short-lived trifle.

But if lasting fidelity is your message, say it for a lifetime, with FURNITURE.

Uncle Sam Promises to Leash His Dogs of War

SECRETARY OF WAR DAVIS
(International News)

Uncle Sam is going to try to prevent any wars in the future. Uncle Sam made that promise, himself, through his spokesman, Secretary of War Davis, in response to a touching letter received from a little girl living "somewhere in Pennsylvania."

Here's her plea:

Dear Uncle Sam:
I want to ask you to do me a favor. If there are any more wars please do not make my dear daddy and uncle Oliver go, because my mother has died.

I only have my daddy, except my aunts.

If you will do this for me I will appreciate it very much.

And here's Uncle Sam's reply:

Your Uncle Sam has asked me to answer the letter you wrote him urging him not to make your daddy and uncle Oliver go to war if there are any more wars. Uncle Sam hopes from the bottom of his heart that there will not be any more wars, and he will do everything he can to prevent them.

He said to tell you not to worry, but to keep your daddy and uncle Oliver out of mischief at home, and he would try to keep the country from getting into trouble abroad.

He was very glad to get your letter and to note the good care you are taking of your family. Uncle Sam sends his best love to you.

Beaver a Feature Of Harriman Park

Once Made Their Home in Section Where They Are Again Propagating Rapidly Under Care of Park Officials.

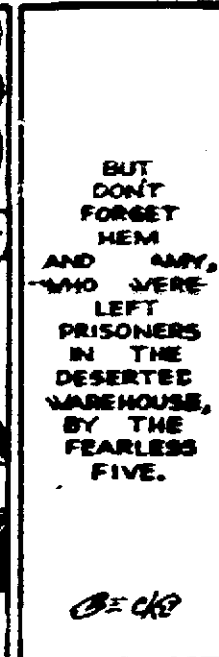

Seven years' experience with beaver in the Harriman State Park, since these animals were transplanted there in 1920, has assured the park management that these interesting and interesting rodents may be regarded as permanent features of its wild life. After some surprisingly annoying and sometimes amusing encounters with the determined engineering instincts of the beavers, the general manager, Major W. A. Welch, and his rangers, have evolved a system of control, which will keep the busy dam builders where they are wanted and remove them from locations where they might do some damage to the forest cover.

The fecundity of the beaver in the Harriman Park, although not surprising in view of their increase everywhere in their range, when checked by examples other than man, has been exceptional in this preserve because of protection given by man in this case, and the scarcity of animals and birds that might prey upon them. From three pairs, trapped in the Adirondacks with the cooperation of the State Conservation Department, and set free in the park in the autumn of 1920, have descended numerous prolific families, increasing yearly in progeny as the adults enlarged their annual production of young, so that it is now estimated that the total number within the forty thousand acres of the Harriman Park exceed two hundred and fifty.

Any count of their colonies and dams would require almost a weekly check up to be accurate. In the open season, for they are finding new locations every summer, but the original three dams, built by the first three couples, in which they passed their first winter, have now increased to more than ten times that number.

Waterfowl Also Increase.
These beaver ponds have become a distinct addition to the wild life conservation program in the park, aside from the interest of nature lovers in the furry engineers themselves, because their ponds provide sanctuaries for water fowl and for young fish. The rare and beautiful wood duck has come to the Hudson Highlands, within the park, to breed, in the watery jungles made by the beaver, and ducks of other species have also reappeared there, while the ponds allure migrating waterfowl to pause in spring and fall in numbers much greater than before the beaver started work. The wealth of plant life in the shallow water of the ponds, encouraged by warmer temperatures and decaying organic matter, furnishes food both for the birds and for the fish which breed in them and which are safe from being robbed up by predatory bass and pickerel found in more open waters. Planting of wild rice, water celery and duck potato, which have increased rapidly, provides food for the ducks, as well as the tiny green disks of the duckweed, the smallest flowering plant, which rapidly covers the beaver ponds with a dim of vegetation.

Beaver Damage Not Permanent.
Damage to trees and shrubs by the beaver has been of no permanent consequence. As elsewhere in their range, from the Gulf of Mexico to Hudson's Bay in Alaska, their favorite food consists of species of little value for timber, such as poplar, willow, gray and yellow birches, pin cherry, alders, soft maple and striped maple, witchhazel, cornel and viburnum. Rarely they cut hemlock, oak and black birch, but where good stands of such trees have been threatened by the flooding of their dams, they have been trapped out by the park rangers, and after some obstinate resistance, discouraged from resuming operations in such locations.

Easy Methods of Trapping.
After experiments with various forms of traps to catch the beaver where their presence was undesirable, Major Welch has adopted a simple method which is easy, effective, and gives no risk of injury to the animals when it is desired to transplant them elsewhere. A fence of chicken wire is placed around their lodges, the water is drawn down by cutting a hole in the dam, and it is only a matter of patient waiting by a ranger before they come out and they can be seized like a rabbit and put in a cage for moving.

If they do not come out, the lodge can be torn open. Earlier expedients such as cutting the dam, or lowering the water level with pipes and siphons, to discourage the beavers and persuade them to depart, failed because the beavers rebuilt the dams as fast as they were opened. Now the rangers catch them with their hands, which is not difficult, since a man can easily outrun a beaver anyway, and the animals are unable to cut through the wire fence, and remove them, some to the zoo for native animals at Bear Mountain, others to locations where they can do no harm.

Change Their Location.
Only a few of the beaver colonies in the park have given Major Welch concern as to their location, with reference to flooding of larger and valuable timber; for most of them are on the streams where only species of inferior timber and scenic values have been used by the animals for food and construction. And even where stands of soft maple, poplar, willow and alder have been cleaned out, after a few years' occupation of a colony, they are not permanently killed. After exhaustion of the supply, the beavers move up or down stream, and presently the original stand is reclothed in swamp species by sprout growth. In Beechy Bottom, one of the original colonies, the first pond made in 1920 was occupied three years, then abandoned, for another location higher up and now the old site is coming back in shrub and tree cover.

Dam Famous Road.
Right now one of the colonies in this valley has dammed the old road used by General "Mad Anthony" Wayne in his march from Fort Mifflin to the storming of Stony Point, in July, 1779. Very likely some of the original native Highland beavers were still to be found there during the Revolution; now, after a century and a half, the species is back again.

There is of course a limit, though it has not yet been reached, to the number of swamp and brook sites where the beaver can safely be permitted to locate, within the park. The Park has a general permit from the State Conservation Department, allowing it to regulate the animals, and it may be necessary to trap out considerable numbers from time to time, to keep them down to a number consonant with maintaining them as a wild life feature and with the amount of food to sustain them. Probably, a beaver population somewhat larger than the present can be permitted as the maximum.

Move Outside of Park.
Before the beaver were established in the park, none of these animals existed nearer than the Adirondacks or western Pennsylvania, where they were re-established in the state forests about the same time, with similar results. Now they are beginning to be reported in various places outside the Harriman park, some on the drainage of streams rising in the preserve, others farther away. No damage of consequence by them, on such private property, has been reported, and if any occurs, the owners may ask the Conservation Department for their regulation. The experiment in replacing beaver in their ancient stands in the Hudson Highlands, within the Harriman Park, in the program of restoring the original wild life of the region, is one of the most successful of its kind in this country; has caused no serious damage, and has improved conditions for other wild life, and with judicious control, these ingenious animals will remain a permanent feature of its fauna.

MODENA.
Modena, Dec. 22.—The annual Christmas exercises of the Modena Methodist Episcopal Church will be held at Hasbrouck's Memorial Hall Friday evening, December 23. Richard DuBois and Otto Quick were in New York, Saturday. Scholars of School District No. 4 will hold their Christmas entertainment Thursday evening, December 22, at the school.

Many family reunions are being planned for during the Christmas holidays, while many others are planning to attend festivities out of town.

The continued cold weather has provided sufficient firmness and thickness to ice on Cole's pond and the local skaters are enjoying themselves at skating parties there, often.

Ruthe Ward was badly injured by a falling plank, while loading timber at saw-mill at Rosendale last week.

Edmund Wager and Walter McAdams of Plattkill were callers here Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Coy and daughter, Gladys, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Harcourt on Sunday afternoon and evening.

Rockefeller at 88 Amazes Colonists

Florida Colony Talks of Personal Activity of Multi-Millionaire, Who Engages in Many Outdoor Diversions in Winter Season.

Ormond Beach, Fla., Dec. 22.—(P.) Again the colony here is agog over the amazing personal activity of John D. Rockefeller Jr.

Year after year, as long as many of the inhabitants of the resort remember, the oil magnate, now 88, has been opening up The Casements, his winter home, donning golf togs and striding about the links or motoring along the quiet beach.

Arriving several weeks earlier than usual this season, Rockefeller quietly slipped into the systematic program which governs his sojourn here. He declares he is "feeling fine, better than ever" and was so enthusiastic over improvements made on his estate during the summer months that he took a flash light and inspected the gardens before retiring on the night of his arrival.

Golf Is Principal Diversion.

Whacking the golf ball down the course is his principal diversion, but he also has a vivid interest in motor-ing, books, conversation with a few friends, religion, philosophy and modern inventions, especially the radio.

He likes to go to church and to join in the singing and frequently attends musicals. On these occasions Rockefeller always stops to chat with his friends among the natives and tourists. Those who visit him in his home find lively entertainment in the anecdotes he tells.

Protected Against Curiosity Seekers.

The multi-millionaire is protected against the numerous curiosity seekers who flock to his estate and he dislikes publicity, but if he likes a photographer he poses for pictures on the links, where he occasionally joins in novel contests.

"What doesn't he do that a man of his years might well be expected to lay aside?" one of his old friends here asked in talking of Rockefeller. "What man of 88 can shoot eight holes of golf in 45? He did that last year, and don't be surprised if he does even better on the links this season."

"Of course, Mr. Rockefeller has to rest quite a lot. He can't afford to run down his batteries at this age, but he has remarkable recuperative power. He likes to ride in his automobile and wants to drive fast.

Like Other People.

In fact, Mr. Rockefeller is just like the rest of us. It's his age and the glare of publicity turned upon his every act which makes him seem different.

About the only popular outdoor diversion in which Rockefeller does not participate to some degree is boating. The blue and plaid Malifax river runs by his front door, and one can cast a stone into the ocean from the rear entrance gateway. But Rockefeller never gets closer to them than the curtained privacy of his car as he goes whizzing down the beach on his afternoon ride.

Yuletide Problems.

A kiddie car for Betty and a rug for Ben.
A runabout for Hetty and for Joe a fountain pen.
A silver set for mother and a check or two, of course.
And I can't afford to forget my brother or the office force.
A quart, perhaps, of this or that for old Judge Blum.
Who went so nobly to the bat when I was in a jam.
The weather, too, is turning wet, the streets are damp and cold,
And I have simply got to get my shoes half-soled.

If you must be a Christmas swapper you can get real joy out of it by swapping little children out of some of their smiles.

The Christmas bells ring sweet and clear.
The carol singers add their lay.
Good wishes come from far and near.
To cheer you all along your way.
May every wish to you most dear.
And all good things that we can say.
Be yours through all the coming year.
And make a Happy Christmas Day.

"Xmas", that ugly profanation of the sacred day in Christendom, almost disappeared from news and advertising columns of the "American press" in 1925—this year, gentlemen, make it unanimous!

Greetings.

When Noel touches lightly
Each tired and wayworn breast,
The sun glows still more brightly.
Hearts yield their glad unrest.
And lips, of laughter chary,
Curve in a gracious smile.
As they wish your Christmas merry—
And so for a little while Earth seems to be full of laughter,
Of love and jollity:
So here is a Merry Christmas
To you, my dears, from me.

Bill: "How did you ever break your engagement?"
Mike: "Oh, easy. I told her my salary."

African Romance

There is a strange romance connected with the discovery of diamonds at the mouth of the Orange river. The field was discovered by the late F. C. Cornall, traveler, explorer and big game shot.

Although his discovery was not apparently known in South Africa, it now transpires that as far back as 1921 Mr. Cornall, while on a visit to London, confided to a friend that he had come upon the most extraordinary wealth of diamonds, and pointed out in the strictest confidence to the position on the map.

One of the objects of his journey to Europe was to arrange for the marketing of the stones. He had wealth almost beyond the imagination of avarice within his reach when he was killed by a motor accident at the Marble arch in London in March, 1921.

All He Wanted

With high hopes the commercial traveler called on a tradesman. They had never done business before, but a friend had supplied the introduction.

"May I show you my samples?" asked the traveler.

"Certainly," answered the merchant, and watched his visitor produce a surprisingly large selection of various articles from an insignificant bag. The traveler pointed out their merits and then waited.

"Well, there's only one thing I want," said the dealer.

"Yes, sir," he cried, "and what is that?"

"I want to see how you're going to get all those samples back into that bag," was the astounding answer.

"Pearl Shower" Only Eggs

A reported "shower of pearls" near Secunderabad, India, recently, caused a rush to the spot where they fell. Following a heavy rainstorm a native discovered the ground covered with white globules, ranging in size from that of a nut to a mustard seed. Thousands flocked to the field in autos, on bicycles and on foot, and gathered the "pearls" by the handful. Police authorities investigated and found that the "pearls" were eggs resembling the genuine article. Many who had collected the eggs are still keeping them, refusing to believe that they are not pearls. The man who discovered them sent a bagful to the authorities at Hyderabad, and demanded payment for the "pearls."

"Sea Desert"

In the south Pacific-ocean has just been discovered the most desolate spot in the world. According to Dr. Austin H. Clark, who helped chart it for the Smithsonian Institution, the place is devoid of any kind of life either in the surface waves or at the bottom, says Popular Science Monthly. No region on land is comparable with its lifelessness.

Ear bones of whales and teeth of sharks on the red clay bottom are the only remains of sea monsters that strayed into the "sea desert" and perished.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Dec. 22.—A children's Christmas party will be held on Tuesday evening, December 22, at 7:30 at St. John's parish house at High Falls. All are welcome.

Mot. court case and session will be held at St. John's Episcopal Church at High Falls on Sunday morning, December 23, at 10:30. The Rev. Father Kirby of the Holy Cross Church of Kingston will officiate.

Restaurant Seen as Divorce-Court Ally

In an address before the National Restaurant association Mrs. Christine Frederick said that if the way to a man's heart is through his stomach it follows that whoever enters most closely to his affections—and consequently, as most women hate to cook, the restaurant is an ally of the divorce court.

Wives will hold the affection of their husbands by good cooking, but they have ceased to be cooks and become themselves.

Yes, indeed, it discourages a man to come home and find that he is expected to eat a lot of cold stuff from the delicatessen shop instead of good hot roast beef with the fixings, and thus is discontent started in a nice happy home—and court actions follow.

Colonial Dames Offer Scholarships

Awards to be Made for Able and Worthy Sons of Colonists, With Preference to Boys in Poor Circumstances.

New York, Dec. 22.—Old Colonial Dames, glassware, jewelry and manuscripts have had their day of appreciation, but now "Colonial Dames" is to be exploited by the Colonial Dames of America.

Mrs. Y. H. Price, chairman of the scholarship committee, who announced the establishment of a scholarship award for able and worthy sons of the colonists, said
the Dames desire to aid in raising the educational standards of boys of American stock.

"Our organization is not doing this for charity, but for education," she said. "Our scholarship committee makes its investigations and reports to the parent body the results of its findings."

"Three things we will use to test any possible recipients of our awards. First, they must be worthy have a high standard of scholarship as well as of morals. Second, they must have proof of their descent from an early American family. And third, they must be in poor circumstances."

Financial Need to Determine.
"This last circumstance won't influence as entirely in giving the scholarship. If one boy who has enough money to insure a college education, has a much higher standing in our other two qualifications,

he will be preferred to the boy whose scholastic standing isn't so good but who has more financial need."

The scholarship will provide for college training in schools and colleges of Colonial foundation. At present it is planned to give only one such scholarship a year, though it will be increased if the demand
be found to be great enough.

The first youth to receive one of the awards is Raymond Harwood of Rupert, Vt., who will be sent to the Mount Hermon School in Mount Hermon, Mass.

"The object of the scholarship," concluded Mrs. Price, "is to provide educational resources for those young men who reverence the ideals and the standards of the ancestry from which they came and thus develop material for truly American leadership."

Nothing Really New in Form of Disease

That the ill of the ancients were the same as those of modern people was made clear recently by Sir Humphrey Davy Rolleston in an address to the British Medical association. The difference, he said, was that they diagnosed them less accurately, and gave them different names.

Tuberculosis had been identified in the Egyptian mummies, and was very prevalent in ancient Greece. Mumps appeared to be one of the few acute infectious diseases accurately isolated in ancient Greece. Bubonic plague was undoubtedly a disease of established antiquity. The pestilence which attacked the Philistines after their capture of the ark was thought to have been plague. Those who did not die were advised to make offerings of five golden representations of their tumors and of five golden mice. The appearance of plague had been recognized in the Third century B. C. in Egypt, Libya and Syria malaria was proved to have been very prevalent in Greece from the fourth century
B. C. and in Italy from about 200
B. C.

One investigator had come to the conclusion that six of the twenty-four sultans from 1209 to 1605 were victims of arthritis. Much able argument has been brought to prove that the sweating sickness was really influenza, added Sir Humphrey Rolleston. Appendicitis existed long before it was "baptized" in 1886, and Sir Humphrey referred to descriptions of cases as far back as 1684 for its widespread and frequent incidence.

Still Worse
"That air, is a falsehood!" severely said the schoolmaster. "Do you know what will happen to you if you tell lies?"
"Yes'm," nonchalantly replied Stinny Simpson. "I'll go to hell and burn."

"Worse than that! You will be expelled from school!"—Kansas City Times.

ACCORD.
Accord, Dec. 22.—The Rochester
Reformed Church Sunday school will hold its annual Christmas tree exercise on Monday evening, December 26. Everybody welcome.

Mrs. Marguerite Osterhout spent Wednesday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. T. Osterhout.

The Community Christmas tree exercise will be held in the Accord
I. O. O. F. Hall Saturday evening, December 24. A beautiful Christmas tree has been received for the occasion. Santa Claus has promised to be there and have something for all the youngsters. Christmas songs will be sung and an entertainment provided by the school children of the vicinity.

Mrs. Katherine Davenport is spending the holidays at her home.
The benefit for the Community Christmas tree, held last Saturday evening, was a great success. People came from far and near to play games and dance and have an evening of fun and frolic. A delicious supper was served from 6 to 8 o'clock under the supervision of Mrs.
G. E. H. Skinner. After the games, just before dancing, a number of articles which had been secured by Mr. Block, were auctioned off and occasioned a lot of fun as well as to add a goodly sum to the proceeds.

This evening of games was sponsored by the Home Bureau and they are hoping to have several more during the winter. All are looking for all the kiddies on Christmas eve. They are asked not to disap-point Santa Claus, for he will have a gift for every child.

The M. E. Sunday school is uniting with the Community tree exercises in the I. O. O. F. Hall on Saturday evening, December 24. The presents from the Sunday school will be presented at that time.

There will be services at the M.
E. Church Sunday, December 25, at 11 o'clock. The Rev. G. H. Cooley will give a reading, a Christmas story entitled "The Other Wise Men". The choir will render special Christmas music. The pastor will present a little gift to members of the congregation. All are invited to attend.

The choir of the M. E. Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Rancus Smith for the final rehearsal of Christmas music Friday evening, December 23, at 7:30. All members are requested to be present.

The County Woman's Club of the M. E. Church will serve the annual New Year's dinner at the church hall Thursday, December 29, at 12 o'clock. Since New Year's comes on Sunday they are having it on the day of the regular monthly dinner.
The refreshment committee will have charge of the dinner. All the ladies of the church are invited to help. There will be a business meeting at 3 o'clock.

ATWOOD.
Atwood, Dec. 22.—The Sunday school of the M. E. Church will meet at 2:30 p. m., Elmer Krum superintendent. At 3 o'clock the church service will be held with the Rev.
J. Holmes Smith in charge. He will take for his text "The Coming of the Divine Deliverer." Special Christmas music will be given by the choir.

Square Dances In the Catskills

Having explored the Catskills
Mary Elizabeth Oshorn has recorded in American Speech some of the results of her observations on the square dance, says an editorial in the New York Evening Sun of Tuesday.
She acknowledges her indebtedness
to Willard Sanford for assistance.
The neighbors gather in the "front parlor", the bare or—corrupting touch for the true antiquarian—in the garage. The addler calls the figures; he is dictator of the dance;
he "has been known to stop fiddling and scold the dancers if the figure is not being performed quite swiftly enough or evenly enough to meet his approval."

Whatever the dance may be, says
this historian, there are introductory and closing steps that are always the same. The opening figure is ordered thus:
"Head couples.
Right and left.
Half promenade:
Ladies change.
Balance four.
Allemand left.
All promenade."

The closing figure is directed in this fashion by the master of festivities:

"Ladies to the right and swing.
Balance to the next;
Gents to the right and swing.
Balance to the next;
Allemand left.
All promenade."

In "Captain Jinks", a favorite dance, the figures are performed with enthusiasm to these quatrains,
the "flying lady" is frequently lifted bodily from the floor and swung in the air with right good will:
"First lady swing with Captain Jinks:
Now with the one that never drinks;
Now with the one that carries the chinks.
And now with the dude of the ballroom.
"First gentleman dance with lady
so fair:
Now with the one with curls in her hair:
Now with the one that flies in the air.
And now with the belle of the
ballroom."

A typical dance for four couples
is expressed in these lines:
"First two give right hands across.
Back with the left:
Fall back between side couples.
And forward six.
And back with the left:
Join your partner.
And balance four in a line:
Swing to places
And promenade all. (Repeat.)"

This is an aspect of life in the Catskills the summer boarder does not know. Our author says that in the villages the square dances are falling off somewhat in popularity,
but on the farms they are as greatly enjoyed as they were a generation ago. Jazz leaves the guests appetite. The Catskills pictured by a good many New Yorkers are quite different.

OLD TOMBS DUG UP IN MEXICO

Serpents Hewn From Stone Guard Ancient Sacred Edifice.

MEXICO CITY.—Excavations on the pyramid of Tzucucan in the Valley of Mexico by the department of archaeology of the Mexican ministry of education this year have disclosed ancient sepulchres and have brought to light altogether 50 serpents hewn from stone, set like soldiers around the pyramid walls to guard the sacred edifice.

The structure, believed to be the tomb of a ruler, is a hollow caser. The stone box set on a stone platform at the southeast corner of the pyramid at its base. The stone casing is about four feet long and a foot and a half wide, and is decorated on the inside with polychrome paintings of death. The illustrations are six craniums and other figures in red, yellow, red, white and black.

The exterior of the stone box carries out the same symbolism by means of eight craniums carved of stone and set into the masonry at regular intervals around three sides. There are also square stone insets showing conventionalized figures of what are thought to represent crossed ulnas, resembling fancy Christian crosses placed askew.

Empty Casket Found.
The casket was empty when the excavators found it, but it may once have contained votive offerings to the dead. It is thought that under the old platform on which the superficial casket rests, there is probably a true sepulcher with some human remains of some ancient Aztec lord or high priest, sufficiently important to have been buried by the pyramid.

Stone craniums have also been found set in the sloping pyramid walls at varying intervals, giving the impression that the structure may have been dedicated to Miclantecuhli, Aztec god of death, as well as to Quetzalcoatl, god of the evening star, from the apparent orientation of the edifice figure of a huge snake of masonry in front of the pyramid, with the star Venus.

Two sides of the pyramid have now almost been completely excavated. On the south side there is a low rampart running around the base of the structure, surmounted by 43 coiled serpents of stone, highly conventionalized, in the center and at regular intervals the serpents are larger and extend their grotesque heads with their monstrous fangs out beyond the battle line of the others. There are 15 of these larger serpents on the east side.

The south side has a similar rampart with 52 carved serpents, of which 13 are prominent by their extra size. The protective covering of earth which has recently been removed, has preserved remnants of the bright colors with which the figures were once painted. On the other two sides the building has been badly damaged at the bottom, but it is thought that the guarding wall of snakes once ran all around the base of the structure.

The pyramid is otherwise in good condition and is believed to have been covered with earth by the Indians to save it from the fate of most of the Aztec temples after the arrival of Cortes. The superstructure, which must once have stood on the flat top of the pyramid, is gone, and many stones from the north and west side of the pyramids have been carried away long ago for building material.

Small idols of baked clay have been found during the excavations, bearing curious Aztec countenances, some of which appear to be portraits and others merely conventionalized figures. There are also broken halves of obsidian, perhaps once used in the sacrificial rites which took place on the pyramid centuries ago, as well as some of your beads.

Painted Pottery Found.
Small, ornamented and perforated clay disks used to rest the point of the spindle were also found as well as many painted pottery fragments. Two large stone shields, like those in Aztec codices, a large human figure carved of stone and a great stone eagle are among the other notable relics recovered.

A much smaller but similar pyramid at Santa Cecilia, about a mile away, is also known, but no regular work of excavation has been done there. The pyramid of Santa Cecilia is curious for the large number of stone craniums which once decorated its sides, but which have long since fallen. More than fifty of these craniums have been collected in an orderly pile and resemble rows of real skulls in some ancient catacombs.

A third pyramid of the same type is near the town of Cuernavaca in the neighboring state of Morelos, and a study of the three is being made by the Mexican department of archaeology.

So much more vigor

—when the system is cleansed of poisons we all have

Do you know that poisons form all the time in your system? They get into the blood stream and so rob you of the vigor, life, youth and energy you should have. Hardly anyone escapes them. Food wastes accumulate and fermentation takes place. As many as 36 of these ever-forming poisons are already known to science.

But nature has provided a natural sort of antidote. In a scientifically pure state this antidote is available to everybody under the trade name of Nujol. Nujol is a unique substance unlike anything else known to man. It cannot be absorbed by the body or any of the organs of the body. At the same time, it has an affinity for body poisons. It takes hold of them, absorbs them, and carries them out of the system safely and harmlessly. It also softens waste matter and brings about normal evacuation of the intestines. Gets rid of poisons, gets rid of food wastes, tends to heal and soothe irritated membranes. Contains no drugs or medicine. Absolutely harmless.

Perfectly by the Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Nujol contains no drugs or medicine. It's in a class by itself. You can take it with perfect safety under any conditions. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys.

GIRL'S STORY OF LINCOLN
WINS BIG LITERARY PRIZE

Former Michigan Honor Student is Awarded $25,000 for Pro-Civil War Novel.

New York.—The largest award ever offered for a purely literary composition, a cash prize of $25,000, is waiting in New York for Miss Katherine Holland Brown of Quincy, Ill.

Miss Brown is at present traveling somewhere in the South, and the only mailing address she left behind was "General Delivery" at Orlando, Fla., a point she expected to reach some time during the winter.

The prize, offered jointly by the Woman's Home Companion and the John Day company, publishers, goes to her for a 99,000-word novel of pre-Civil War days entitled "The Father," which was adjudged the best of 1,391 manuscripts submitted by authors from every state in the Union and several foreign countries.

Another prize of $25,000, which was to have been given for the best novel submitted by a man, goes unawarded because none of the manuscripts submitted by men was considered good enough. About 500 men tried for the prize, but the judges—two men and two women—dismissed their offerings as unimpressive. The best manuscript submitted by a man was outclassed by at least a dozen of the manuscripts submitted by women, declared one of the judges.

The contest, announced a year ago, insured equal opportunity to both unknown writers and established authors.

thors by requiring that all manuscripts be submitted under pseudonyms, and the final decision was reached before the identity of the winner was disclosed to the judges, who included Gertrude B. Laue, editor of the Woman's Home Companion; Richard J. Walsh, president of the John Day company, and two distinguished writers, Dorothy Canfield and James Branch Cabell.

Miss Brown is a graduate of the University of Michigan, and the author of a collection of short stories from the Bible. She was an honor student in college, winning the Phi Kappa.

Her prize novel, "The Father," deals with the fortunes of a father and daughter who lived in southern Illinois about 1850. The father was a printer and a violent opponent of slavery. One of the characters in the novel is an obscure local lawyer who was a close friend of the family, but who was much more favorable to the institution of slavery than the rabid old printer. So they quarreled continually. Lawyer Abraham Lincoln taking a conservative ground in defense of slavery, while the printer endeavored to win him over to the abolitionist cause, finally succeeding.

Knowing Your Rating!

John, a first-year youngster, had received his first report card, and was asked by a neighbor what success he had made in school, to which he answered:

"I tell you, I don't do so good. I got some B's, C's and S's."
"Wait, are the S's for?" the neighbor inquired.
"I got good in something. I guess that's it."

Christmas Day
At St. Peter's

At St. Peter's Church the following order of services will be held in observance of Christmas:

Confessions on Saturday from 4 to 6, and from 7:20 in the evening until everyone is heard. Solemn midnight Mass with sermon and communion. The church doors will be opened at 11:30. On Christmas all low Masses will be celebrated at the same hours as on Sundays—7, 8, 9, 10:30—with additional Masses in between these hours and at the side altar. At 7:30 in the evening there will be Christmas Vespers, Benediction and the singing of the Te Deum.

Christmas, the feast of the Nativity of Our Lord, is one of the greatest festivals of the church calendar. On this day the priests are permitted to celebrate Mass three times in memory of the threefold birth of Christ: His forthcoming as a child in the stable of Bethlehem, His spiritual rebirth in men's hearts and His eternal birth as Son of the Heavenly Father. The pastor of St. Peter's further states that the faithful in turn should attend three Masses on this great feast day and thus render appropriate adoration and gratitude to the Christ-child.

St. Peter's choir under the direction of the organist, John Schwalbach, will render the following musical program:

MIDNIGHT MASS.

Prelude—Jesu, Redeemer (violin and organ). P. A. Von Adoration (violin and organ).

Recessional—Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht (choir). Franz Gruber Kyrie. Gloria. Kalliwoda Credo. Offertory—Adeste Fideles (solo and chorus with violin obligato). The Rev. J. P. Neumann Sanctus, Benedictus, Agnus Dei.

Communion—Christmas Pastorate and Paraphrase on German Christmas Melodies (violin and organ). Postlude—Triumphal March. Verdi At the 9 o'clock Mass Christmas carols will be sung by the school children.

AT THE 10:30 MASS.

Laetentur Coeli. Wiegand Adeste Fideles. Novello Christmas hymns by the choir.

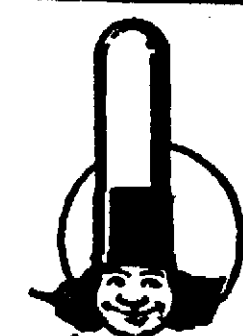

CHRISTMAS VESPERS 7:30 P. M. Antiphons and Psalms. Gregorian Jesu, Redeemer Omnium. Gullmant Magnificat. Wiegand Alma Redemptoris. Hammer O Salutaris. Hammer Tantum Ergo. Silas Te Deum—(Holy God We Praise Thy Name). The Congregation Postlude. Weigl

Keeping Order in China

Prof. E. T. Williams says: "While theoretically the police powers of the whole country are exercised by the minister of the interior at Peking, in reality, except in some of the principal cities the peace is maintained very much as of old—by control through the village elders and the system of mutual responsibility. On the whole the method of holding the neighbors responsible for one another's conduct and the elders responsible for the village tends to check serious offenses. On the other hand, if the general sentiment is opposed to any regulation, such as that forbidding opium smoking, the probabilities are that the neighbors will shield one another. The responsibility for the ti-pao, as the principal elder, for the good order of the whole village makes his office anything but a sinecure."

Ancient "Rip Van Winkles"

A general parallel to Rip Van Winkle is found in Epimenides, who, according to legend, lived in the island of Crete six centuries before the Christian era. Going, by his father's orders, in search of a sheep, the story is that he laid down in a cave and slept for fifty years. Awakening, he returned to his people, with long hair and flowing beard, the difference between Rip and Epimenides being that the latter, during his protracted slumbers, had absorbed a marvelous measure of knowledge. The German legend on which Washington Irving's story is founded has as its central character one Peter Klaus, a goatherd of Sittendorf, with the scene laid in the Kyffhäuser.

Creme Satin, Ciro Laces and Satins, Georgettes, and Some New Shoulder Decorations That Are Substitutes for Flowers

Paris—Creme satin has won its spurs. One finds it in use everywhere, both alone and used in combination with its dull reverse side or with georgette. There are other satins, notably ciro satin, an extremely smooth, "stove-polish finished" fabric, which is chic, not only in black but in colors. It appeared at several of the midseason collections, used both for afternoon and evening dresses. Ciro lace, also treated to the stove-polish finish, is one of the outstanding favorites among laces. These, by the way, are much in use, either in black or beige, but seldom in other tones.

By all means, plan on georgette dresses, if a southern wardrobe is under consideration, and if not, plan on them anyway. Georgette has to a very large extent replaced chiffon, and may certainly be regarded as interchangeable with chiffon. An all-black georgette gown is considered very distinguished, but is nearly always enlivened by a jeweled ornament, or the omnipresent buckle, which has quickly replaced the flower without which no shoulder was properly decorated.

On the subject of shoulder decorations, one must acknowledge the boy. It may be of any size, from mere handkerchief dimensions, knotted at the corner and with perky, up-standing ends, to a large, soft long-looped and long-ended bow. One maison ended a plain shoulder-strap, of the gown's own material, in a bow where it joined the camisole top of the gown; the other shoulder being diagonally draped. This is an arrangement that is becoming more and more in general use. The one-sided decollete is very much the mode.

The KITCHEN CABINET

It is true that often the things we hope for fail to put in their appearance, but think of the wonderful compensation we get in the good things that appear as unexpectedly—Lloyd

SUMMER DISHES

During the hot weather the meat supply should be cut down. If there are mushrooms to be had from the fields one need not miss having appetizing meats.

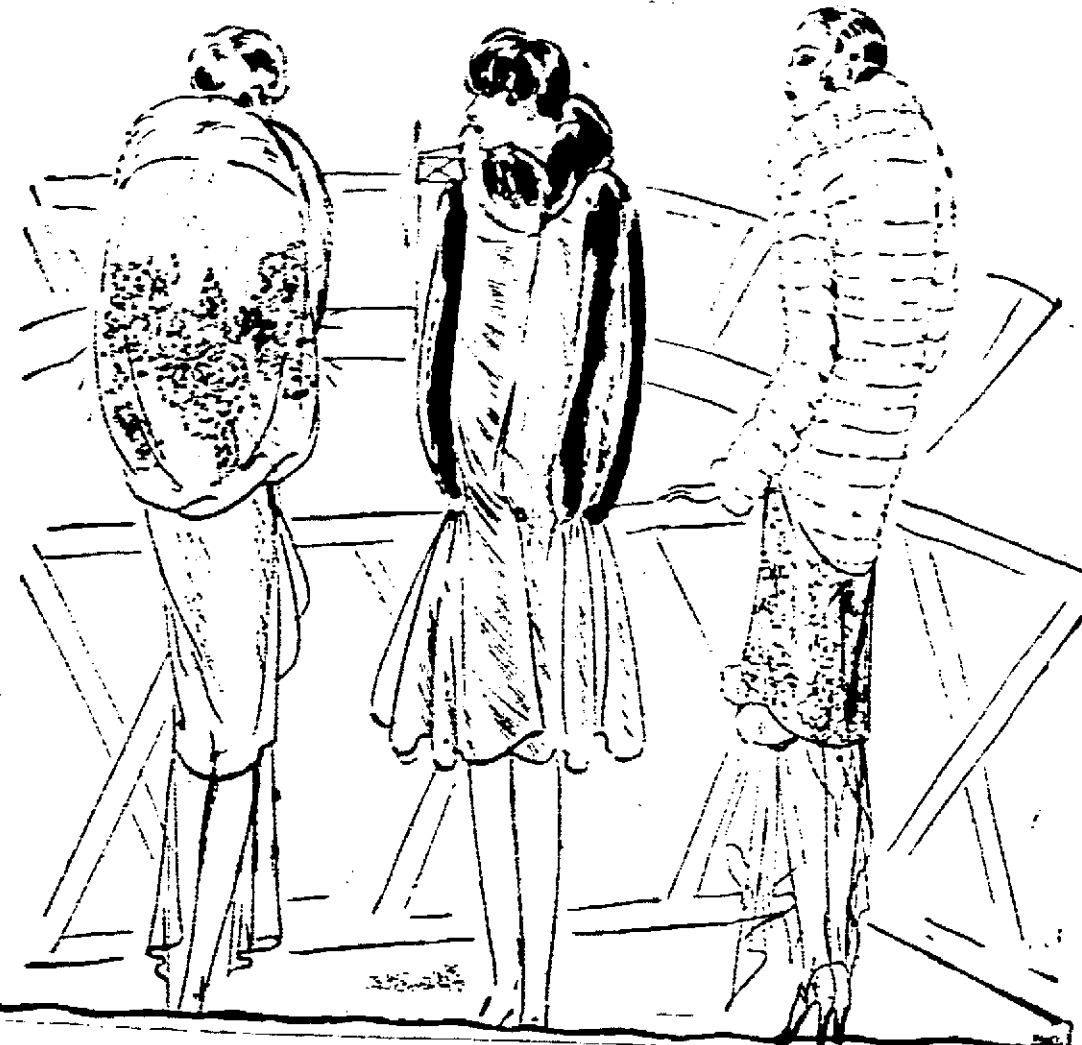

Tuna Fish With Mushrooms.—Take two cups of tuna fish, one cup of thin cream, one teaspoonful of butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of cayenne, a grating of nutmeg, two cups of mushrooms cut into dice and cooked in butter five minutes, one cup of white sauce and a tablespoonful of minced parsley. Add the mushrooms to the tuna, the cream and the seasonings, stir in the butter and simmer 15 minutes. Serve on buttered toast and pour the hot, well-seasoned white sauce with the parsley added, over all.

Queen of Bread Pudding.—During the summer when bread moulds quickly, various puddings and au gratin dishes may be made occasionally. Take one pint of milk, one pint of bread crumbs, the yolks of two eggs, one cupful of sugar, a tablespoonful of melted butter, the rind and juice of half a lemon. Beat the whites of the eggs very stiff, add two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Cover the pudding after mixing with a layer of sugar and lemon juice and rind, then cover with the meringue and bake until brown. Serve with cream or a hard sauce.

Cottage Cheese With Lettuce.—Heap creamed cottage cheese on fresh crisp lettuce, top with a spoonful of good boiled dressing and garnish with a cube of jelly or a bit of preserve. Sprinkle with chopped nuts if desired.

Best Lima Beans.—Take two cups of fresh lima beans, add one medium-sized green pepper, one onion and one carrot, chopped. Cook in boiling water until tender, then salt, reserving when draining one-half of the liquor. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, pepper and salt to taste, then add one-half cupful of the liquor and the same amount of milk; cook until smooth, pour over the vegetables and serve hot.

which is not as often as formerly, they are small designs. Persian or gold Chinese in character. Velvets are well represented, and fur collars have reached astonishing heights, usually being made to stand, and never worn otherwise.

Lanvin makes elaborate use of black fur on black velvet and satin wraps, and uses gray taupe for also. She continues to do decorative things with sleeves, usually embroidering them in steel or gun-metal if the coat is black, or in silver if it is in color. For one wrap, she uses a vivid green, and for another cloth of gold exquisitely quilted, a form of decoration employed by her season after season, but always with new interest—as, for instance, the use of metal thread.

Philippe et Gaston have evolved a wrap that is presented for both sports and evening—in different fabrics, it goes without saying. This has a circular swinging cape silhouette, plus one sleeve, a graceful and rather tricky arrangement usually coupled with a scarf collar. Many wraps are furred to the elbow, this being true of those for day as well as evening wear.

One is permitted an extravagant amount of jewelry these nights, necklaces being formal in their setting and frequently matched with long earrings. The jeweled and always very large ornaments that occur at hip or shoulder naturally add to a glittering impression. (Copyright, 1927, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service, New York.)

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 22 (AP). Despite sporadic efforts of "bear" traders to bring about a reaction, the stock market continued to push upward today on heavy buying for both speculative and investment accounts. Speculative activity took place in a few of the insurance company shares, which are reported to have had the best years in their history. Pools were again active in a wide assortment of specialties, but the amusement, copper, merchandising and steel shares gave the best demonstrations of group strength.

Marking up of the call money residual rate to 1 1/2 per cent was regarded as temporary, due to the heavy seasonal demands for currency.
Unbusiness developed in some quarters over the volume of brokers' loans which will be announced by the Federal Reserve Bank after the close of the market. Because of the considerable volume of new financing this week and the advance in stock prices,
a substantial increase is looked for in many quarters.

U. S. Steel common regained its role as market leader by moving up more than 2 points to 15 1/2, the highest price since early October. Cru-cible ran up over 2 points. Buying of the steels was stimulated by the more cheerful trade reports. Renewed accumulation of the copper shares sent Chile, Cerro de Pasco, Kennecott and American Metals to record high prices.

Paramount Famous Players crossed 115 to a new peak on reports that fourth quarter earnings would approximate $4 a share.

New tops also were established by International Harvester, National Cash Register, and American Agricultural Chemical preferred.

Weakness developed in American Woolen preferred, New York, Ontario and Western, A. M. Byers, Wright Aero and Greene Canahan, although some of the losses were cut down or wiped out in the early afternoon rally.

Jail Threat for Cunningham

later. The patient remained there about 12 days and he saw him several times during that time and treated him. The solution treatment was continued and additional drugs were inserted two or three times. The condition was bad, very toxic and the general condition of patient was bad. It was a serious case. Granulation had begun to develop. The condition did not improve. On December 13 the patient left the hospital against the advice of Dr. O'Meara and Dr. Gifford.
Mrs. Gunther had been informed that an amputation was the only hope but she opposed it.

The treatment administered was the best possible in the case, in the opinion of Dr. O'Meara.

Doctors Met at His Office.

Following the difficulty between the court and Judge Cunningham, Dr. O'Meara was asked to call a meeting of the doctors at his home last Saturday to discuss the case. He said he had not called a meeting but had offered his office for the meeting. He understood the doctors there were to be called as witnesses. Mr. Flemming was present and discussed the case from the standpoint of counsel.
Dr. O'Meara said he was interested in the case.

Dr. O'Meara Made Drainage.

No drainage had been made in the foot except what he made. In his opinion it was sufficient. He said he did not see any drainage tube in the wound when he went there the first day with Dr. Gifford. The wound was open at the time. He said he never heard that there had been no solution used at the Benedictine Hospital except water. He said he never saw a solution at the Gunther house known as a treatment for blood poisoning and referred to by Dr. Gifford. He never looked for any.
There was no improvement in the condition of Mr. Gunther when he left the Benedictine Hospital. Dr.
O'Meara said the growth on the foot
was in a sense a malignant tumor.
The term could be used as Dr.
Chandler used it.

On re-direct examination the witness said, however, he had diagnosed the case as granuloma or blood poisoning.

Good Practice, Says Dr. Johnston.

Dr. F. A. Johnston was called. He saw the operation at the Kingston City Hospital. The foot was infected with granuloma. His opinion was that the treatment administered by Dr. Gifford was good practice.
On cross-examination Dr. Johnston said he was not present at any meeting Saturday with other doctors.
He said he had talked of the case.
He stated in the Stuyvesant Barber Shop that a meeting had been called of local doctors but he was not going to attend and he was confronted later by Mr. Cunningham with statements which he had made before. Dr.
Johnston said he had made such a statement in the barber shop.

Dr. Cranston Approves.

Dr. William J. Cranston was called.
To the hypothetical question he said he considered the treatment given good. He was not at any meeting Saturday. No one talked to him of the case. He denied that anyone had said to him that it was a case in which local doctors ought to stand together.
Asked by Mr. Flemming if bichloride of mercury was at present considered a good treatment for blood poisoning, he said not at the present time. No tourniquet could be applied to stop all flow of blood, he said. Alcohol, he agreed, was a good sterilizing means, it was considered a good antiseptic.

Dr. Bush Also Approves.

Dr. William Bush was called. He, too, said the treatment was good as administered. He did not attend the meeting Saturday. He had been asked but later was requested not to come by Dr. Gifford. He said he had twice talked to Dr. Gifford of the case. He said he knew Nathaniel Eltinge of this city. He knew he was a friend of Dr. Diedling of Saugerties. He said he had not sent any message by Mr. Eltinge to Dr.
Diedling Wednesday. He had talked to Mr. Eltinge of the case. He did not tell Eltinge that it would be unwise of Dr. Diedling to testify in the case. He said he had not expected or thought that any facts would be conveyed back to Dr. Diedling by Eltinge.

Dr. Bush was asked if he was insured in group insurance as were other doctors of the county against adverse results in the practice of his profession. Objected to by Mr. Flemming and sustained by the court.

Treatment Good, Says Dr. Larkin.

Dr. John F. Larkin was next called. He said the treatment given had been good. He said he had been at the meeting Saturday and Mr.
Flemming was there. The case was discussed. He was late in arriving.
He had an idea what the meeting was called for. He could not recall
Mr. Flemming reading any hypothetical question, he said it might have been read in full or in part, he was not at the meeting all the time.
Court recessed until 1:45 o'clock.
The plaintiff has one more witness and Mr. Cunningham will call four or five in rebuttal.

Leventhal's Vault Progressing.

Leventhal Brothers have received their first carload of cork for insulating their new vault from the L. Mundel & Son Cork Company of New Jersey. This cork is being applied to hot asphalt to the walls, roof and floor of their new fireproof
and burglar proof for storage vault for the past two months. The vault is constructed of solid concrete reinforced with steel. When completed this will not only be the only fireproof and burglar proof vault in the Hudson valley used for the storage of furs but will be the only refrigerating fur storage vault in the Hudson valley. This vault will have a capacity of 6,000 coats.

ing Elmira College, is spending the Christmas holiday season at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gold, 178 Green street.

enlisted in the Regular Army and sailed from New York for Galveston, Texas, is a son of Mrs. Della Ward of 15 Derrenbacher street.

ceiving congratulations over the arrival of a daughter, Marguerite Agnes, at their home on Albany avenue extension Sunday, December 11.

Isaac Conner of Rochester Center is slowly improving at the Benedictine Hospital where he was taken for treatment on Monday. Mr. Conner is an uncle of Mrs. Charles Phillips of 709 Broadway.

Charles Baldwin Allen, Scotch baritone of New York city, who has many friends in Kingston, has been completing his recovery from typhoid fever at his old home in Canada, and will return to New York for Christmas.

Mrs. Irving Smith of 50 Roosevelt avenue, this city, has been called to Brooklyn by the serious illness of her sister, Miss Myrtle Tidquist, of Wyckoff Heights Hospital, Brooklyn,
where she is in training. Miss Tidquist is still critically ill.

Word has been received in this city from J. Clarendon McClure, formerly organist of St. John's Church

Allen, Scotch baritone, stating that

Visitors Treated to "Relay" Dinner Party

George Arliss in his reminiscences,
"Up the Years from Bloomsbury," describes a novel farewell dinner party given to him and Mrs. Arliss in Boston at the end of the run of "Disciple."

"As there was not time to pay leisurely farewell visits to all of our friends, the latter arranged for a Sunday dinner to be partaken of in five or six separate and distinct establishments."

"We were ignorant of the conspiracy until after the soup had been served at the first house to which we were invited. We were much surprised when, after soup, our hostess got up and the whole party of eight wished us good-by. We were bundled into a waiting limousine and driven to house No. 2, where we arrived in time for the second course. Fish having been consumed, we were whizzed off to house No. 3, and so on until the sixth house, where coffee was served and all the parties from the other houses were assembled."

Home Bureau Sale Continues.

New articles from various Home Bureau units over the county are still arriving at the Home Bureau office, 250 Wall street, and the Christmas sale is still under way.
Nifty stocking and paper bags, and many handy and attractive articles for use in the home are on sale and at prices entirely too low for the work that the articles have had put upon them. The sale has already netted the Home Bureau a sum above the expectations of those planning it, but there are yet more articles for sale and the sale will continue until Saturday noon. The office is open from 9 until 5.

Mr. Parish's Condition.

The condition of George W. Parish of Hasbrouck avenue, who was severely injured when knocked down by an automobile, remains about the same at the Kingston City Hospital.

SANTA MAKES VISIT TO LEGION BUILDING

A happy gathering of children accompanied by their parents greeted Santa Claus at the American Legion Memorial Building, West O'Reilly street, Wednesday night when he visited there. The children were pleased with St. Nick who acted as master of ceremonies for an entertainment program. Santa started the joyful evening by doing a jig for the little folks. He then called upon several of his wellcomers to recite, which they did very admirably.
The children were led to a large Christmas tree erected in the building where presents were distributed by Santa. After taking orders for Christmas gifts Santa left for his land of toys, leaving behind a group of happy boys and girls who will wait eagerly for his return on Christmas Eve.

Tightening Pays Double

Keeping the body bolts tight has an advantage other than that it serves to eliminate troublesome noises and wear. If the bolts are taken up regularly it means that they are not allowed to become so rusty that the nuts cannot be turned on them. It does not pay to allow this task to remain undone over a long period, for when the motorist gets around to it he probably will find that many of the bolts will have to be replaced.

Seven German States Within Small Radius

While it is generally known that some of the German states are of Littlinton size, few persons are aware that it is quite possible to visit seven of them, including two former kingdoms, two duchies and three principalities, in an easy walk of four and a half hours.

A good walker, starting from Seels-bach, in Bavaria, will arrive in half an hour at Lichtenau, which is situated in Sax-Meiningen. Twelve road proceeds in one and a half hours to Hainshengerees (Reuss, Elder Branch) after which in a few minutes Gleim, in Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt, is reached.

Half an hour's walk brings the pedestrian to Altenreuss (Reuss, Younger Branch). An hour further on lies Drogitz, on Prussian soil, and the last stage is another hour's stroll, finishing up at Saathaus, Sax-Altenburg.

Van Slyke-Horton Christmas Party

On Wednesday evening there was a delightful Christmas tree party at the G. W. Van Slyke and Horton building in this city, when some 260 guests enjoyed a handsome Christmas tree easily decorated, a great star above with light and other appropriate decorations and a merry evening. The entire second floor of the building was given over to the party.

George K. Colden, superintendent of the factory, welcomed the guests in words of cordial greeting, and there were also expressions of good will from Treasurer Thomas A. Horton. Another guest of honor was E.
C. Crais, production manager of the factory.

Mr. Horton presented each of the workers in the factory with a five pound box of candy and Santa Claus was present to distribute the gifts exchanged between the co-workers.
During the evening, ice cream and cake were served, and music for dancing was furnished by Leo Mosher's orchestra.

Verdict Favors Rogers Hornsby

ROGERS HORNSBY

For three days, Hornsby, bronzed and athletic, played a legal ball game in the position of defendant, and yesterday a jury in circuit court decided he owed Moore nothing. The decision was not unanimous, two of the jurors refusing to sign the verdict.

Inference was taken from the verdict that Hornsby and Moore were gambling jointly on horse races, for Circuit Judge McElhinney instructed the jury before hand that gambling debts were not admissible in court, and that if it were the conviction of the jury that the pair were gambling, no judgment should be granted.

Hornsby was freed on all of seven counts which had been allowed to stand against him. Originally there were twelve counts asking a total of $92,000 from the ball player on grounds that he borrowed money from Moore and after losing it refused to repay the loans. This was reduced by demurrers to $26,275.

Industrial Games Tonight
The only Industrial Basketball League games this week will be played at the Y. M. C. A. court tonight. The opposing teams will be the Hercules vs. the Silk Mills and the Schillings vs. the Central Hudson A. quintet. The regular Saturday night games were called off on account of its being Christmas Eve. It is expected that a goodly number of fans will fill the balcony of the "Y" court tonight when the contests will be staged. The first game will get under way at 8:30.

TUNNEY EXPECTS TO FIGHT DURING JUNE OR JULY
Miami, Fla., Dec. 22 (AP).—Gene Tunney talked future fights between swings on a golf ball here yesterday as he played an unscored round with "Pony" McAtee, who had a leg upon Whiskery to win the last Kentucky derby.

Tunney said he expected to fight in defense of his heavyweight crown during June or July but expressed the desire that Tex Rickard would not stage the match.

He said he understood his contract with Rickard to be merely an option, whereby the promoter has the right or refusal to stage any match between now and October, should the champion decide on a match he wants. Tunney said he had a better offer for next summer's match than Rickard had made.

Delaney Under New Management

Joe Jacobs and Billy McCarney Pay Newburgh Brawl, Who Will Meet Mike Spiegel at Armory December 28. Has Made Splendid Record.

The six-round battle between Stanley Reid of Newburgh and Mike Spiegel of the Bronx Engineers of New York City should prove one of the best features of the card of bouts to be put on at the armory Wednesday, December 28, in planning the bouts the officials in charge aimed for a stellar card and they believe that the program as announced, will please all.

Stanley Reid is a brother of Jackie, who is to meet Eddie Marlow of Governor's Island in the semi-final set-to. Stanley is a member of the 15th Field Artillery of Newburgh and is well known in the City as a good scrapper. Stanley will be remembered by the fans who attended the Post-Race boxing show of Frank Marlowe, New York sportsman, in 1922 and three years later paid $15,000 for a half interest he had in Delaney in the meantime.

The alliance was broken yesterday in the offices of the New York State Athletic Commission where Reilly legally turned over his gladiator to Jacobs and McCarney and at the same time bequeathed them his control of Sammy Vogel, a lightweight, for good measure. Delaney, whose contract with Reilly had but one year to run, immediately signed a two year agreement with his new mentors.

Jacobs promptly matched Delaney to fight Tony Marullo of New Orleans here January 23, and announced that his new protegee would be launched immediately into a campaign intended to force a title battle with Gene Tunney next summer.

Under Reilly's management Delaney earned approximately $350,000. The purchase price, as far as published records go, created a new high water mark in the bartering of athletic chateaus.

Billy Gibson bought Gene Tunney's contract for $5,000. Sid Terris was purchased for $10,000 a year ago, and $7,500 was the highest price offered for Ace Hudkins when the Nebraska wildcat was on the market. Jack McAuliffe brought $15,000 years ago and the contract of King Solomon, heavyweight, once was sold for $10,000.

Jacobs' stable now includes Frankie Genaro, flyweight, Joe Glick, junior lightweight and Jack McVey, negro middleweight.

HAGEN-JONES GO IS NOT LIKELY

Proposed Match Is Disapproved by Association.

As glowing competitive prospect as it would hold, there apparently is no chance that Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones will meet on Florida links or elsewhere this winter for the "world's golf championship."

The principal obstacle is the objection of the United States Golf Association to amateur-professional matches of this sort, whether or not gate receipts are involved. It is the view of the amateur governing authorities that such a contest would savor too much of commercialism, under the circumstances.

This position, it is understood, was taken partly as a result of the special 72-hole match in March, 1923, when Hagen took the measure of Jones at St. Petersburg, Fla., by the decisive margin of 12 and 11. The U. S. G. A. frowned on the match at the time, but remained officially aloof inasmuch as elaborate arrangements had been made for it.

Now that he is slated to be a member of the executive committee of the U. S. G. A. for 1928, Jones would be particularly obligated to uphold the policies of the organization, whether or not his personal inclination would favor trying conclusions with Hagen.

The attractiveness of such a match would be enhanced by the fact that Hagen is the American professional champion for the fourth straight year, while Jones holds the British open and United States amateur titles. One bid already has been made for it, in Florida.

Business affairs of both Hagen and Jones might prevent a meeting during the winter season, anyway. Hagen is president of the Rochester (N. Y.) Baseball club now and his plans for playing in the South are uncertain. Jones is giving more thought to his law work than golf.

Bancroft Gets $49,500 From Robins Next Year

Joe Vito, veteran and well-informed New York sporting writer, says that Dave Bancroft, thirty-five years old, may receive $49,500 from the Brooklyn baseball club for playing shortstop next year. This amazing information has been confirmed by former City Magistrate Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, who released Bancroft. Fuchs truthfully announced when Bancroft's contract was turned over to the Brooklyn club that the Boston club had not received a dollar in return. But it is a fact that the Brooklyn club's president-manager signed an ironclad agreement with Fuchs to make two payments of $24,750 each to Bancroft, one when he reports for duty and the other next summer. This money represents the value of Bancroft's release from the Braves, but it goes to the veteran shortstop instead of the Boston club, which, under the terms of the agreement, relinquished claim to his services. Bancroft's Boston contract called for a salary of $18,000, which it is said has been assumed by the Brooklyn club.

YOUNG JAKE SCHAEFER AGAIN WINS CROWN
New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The world's 152 banking billiards crown rested today on the brow of young Jake Schaefer, of Chicago, the third successor to the diadem within a year.

Young Jake, son of the "Old Master" of the same name and game, defeated the titleholder, Walter Cochran of Hollywood, in a five block match, 1,500 to 1,294, completed here last night.

The new champion succeeds to a title he has held twice before—in 1921 and 1925.

POULTRY

FEED REQUIRED FOR CHICKENS

From time to time we receive inquiries asking how much feed is required for producing chickens, says the Iowa Homestead. These people appreciate that the feed cost is one of the important considerations in raising poultry. Too often people believe that it is the whole cost, for some do not make allowance for other costs, such as mortality, depreciation on buildings, labor, etc.

The Connecticut experiment station determined the amount of feed which was required to grow White Leghorns and Rhode Island Reds chicks till they were 24 weeks of age. At that age Leghorns had consumed 22.13 pounds per bird and the Red 25.77 pounds. The Leghorns weighed 3.25 pounds and the Red 4.3 pounds per bird.

The Indiana station reports that it took approximately 20 pounds of feed to raise White Rock pullets to 25 weeks of age. From these two reports it would seem likely that average amounts of feed needed to reach maturity would be approximately 25 pounds for Leghorns and from 20 to 25 pounds for the heavy breeds.

Some figures are also available on the amount of feed that will be consumed by hens in a year. The smaller breeds require less than the larger breeds and hens that do not lay heavily will consume less than those that are heavy layers. Heavy laying Leghorns will consume approximately 75 pounds of feed yearly per hen, while the heavier breeds will need about 80 pounds.

Skim Milk Recognized Feed for All Poultry

Skim milk is a recognized feed for poultry from the baby chick on up to the laying pullet, and as a supplement to either home-grown feeds or the commercial product, it is recommended by successful poultrymen and specialists the world over.

Those engaged in the poultry business must necessarily have high production. Unless they have an abundance and variety of feeds and know how properly to mix them, the commercial feed must be used. This is also the case with every farmer who seeks high production.

Commercial poultry feeds, in most cases, are the result of scientific research. Their efficiency has been demonstrated so many times that there is no room for argument, but no farmer will make a mistake if he seeks to lower the cost of production by producing his own grains and by utilizing all the skim milk available.

Preventing Egg Losses Is Not Difficult Task

The season is near at hand for converting feed crops into eggs. No one wants to put labor into the production of eggs and then lose their value. It is estimated that about 17 per cent of the eggs shipped to wholesale markets have no commercial value because of their being dirty, broken, or having chick development, or being shriveled, rotten or moldy. The following conditions will almost entirely eliminate losses from these sources: Eggs for market should weigh from one and one-half to two pounds per dozen; be uniform in size; be free from dirt, but not washed; be strong shelled, fresh and fertile. They should be laid in clean nests, gathered often, never taken from an incubator nor from stolen nests; they should be kept in a cool, dry place until delivered at the market.

No Difficulty Is Met in Picking Out Layers

No difficulty should be met in picking out the best-laying or the poorest-laying hens in the farm flock. With some birds, however, the distinguishing marks are not so distinct and may sometimes be rather contradictory. Thus one hen may be an early molder and yet show good body shape. Another bird may molt late and at the same time show poor quality. Birds of this type are usually medium producers, and the owner must decide whether they should be kept or sold.

Affects Egg Size

It is possible in forcing feeding when the hen lays day after day for a week or two that the egg will gradually lose in size, depending on the hen and the kind of food eaten. If the hen has inherited capacity to lay many eggs, and she gets the right kind of foods, she will lay normal-sized eggs even though laying heavily. To lay many normal eggs the hen must be fed plenty of protein foods, such as are found in the mash, especially during the winter.

Avoid All Drafts

There should be no drafts in the poultry house in fall and winter. The sides of the house should be as nearly airtight as it is possible to make them. This applies also to the roof. This is one reason why shingle roofs are not satisfactory. The air sifts through and considerable heat is allowed to escape. Drafts are responsible for the birds contracting colds. Cracks should be completely closed so that comfort will be afforded to the laying flock.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of The Rondout National Bank of Kingston, for the election of Directors, will be held at the banking house, 29 Ferry Street in the City of Kingston, on Tuesday, January 10, 1928, between the hours of 11 A. M. and 12 Noon.

Xmas Lighting Contest Closed

Many Displays are Very Beautiful and More are Expected Before Christmas—Judge Will Decide on or Before January 2.

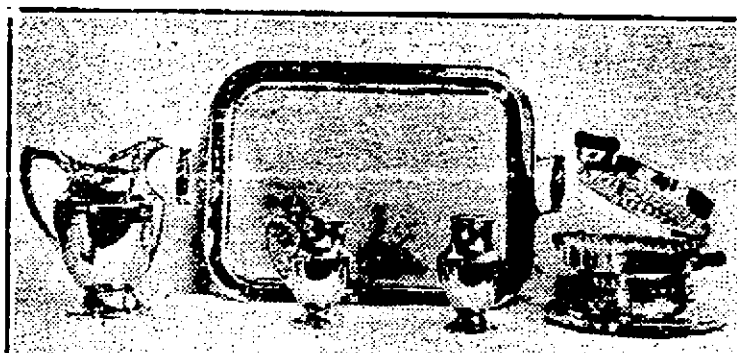

The residential Christmas Lighting Contest sponsored by the Electric Service League of Kingston closed this noon so that no more entries can be accepted from now on.

A great deal of interest has been taken in the contest by Kingston residents. It is expected that the rivalry among the contestants will produce some very attractive displays. Many streets are already dotted with gaily lighted homes, and still others will appear before Christmas.

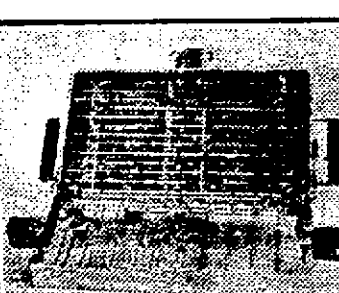

Three prizes for the contest which have been on display for several days at S. Cohen's Sons, Wall street are illustrated below:

FIRST PRIZE—ELECTRIC PERCOLATOR SET

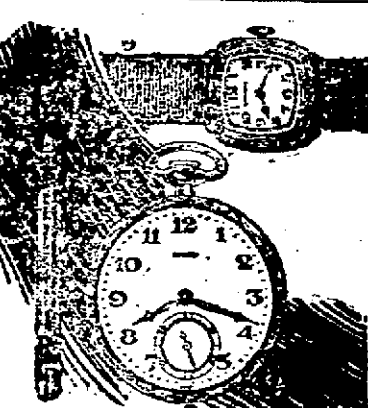

SECOND PRIZE—ELECTRIC WAFFLE IRON SET

THIRD PRIZE—ELECTRIC SUNBEAM TOASTER

The judges who are to decide on the merits of the many displays are as follows:
W. G. Kingman.
The Rev. J. Wilbur Tetley.
Judge A. Shufeldt.
Judging will take place some time between now and January 2, and all contestants are reminded that their homes to be eligible for a prize must be lighted for the entire period.

Christmas Seal Sale Nears End

The Christmas seal sale is drawing near a close. The Tuberculosis Committee thank all those who have responded so generously to their appeal for funds. With only a few days remaining before Christmas, a great many more contributions are needed. If the appeal of this year is to have the success of that of 1926. The success of the appeal depends on the number of persons who cannot shut their eyes to the picture of misery and suffering caused by tuberculosis.

The man or woman whose heart is touched should not delay in making a contribution. It certainly will add to your own pleasure at this Christmas season to know that you have had a part in adding a little to the happiness of others.

Sardines may come from Sardinia, because of course bombs come from Bombay.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Good reception Wednesday afternoon and early evening, with WEAJ especially good, was followed by an interval of fading, weakness and all manner of unpleasant things. After 9 o'clock reception improved and "Aida," from the WEAJ chain, was extremely good. Chicago stations seemed weak, while WOC, WJR, WLW and WTAM were strong. WGY was still doing stunts Wednesday afternoon through its test station 2XI, where "The Unmasked Baritone" sang endlessly and, as he explained, without knowing what it was all about. His testimonial telegrams were excellent hits.

ROSENDALE GRANGE OFFICERS INSTALLED

At the last meeting of Rosendale Grange, No. 1501, held at All Saint's parish house on December 12, the following recently elected officers were installed with ceremony by the installing officer, Irving C. Barnes, and his assistants:

Master, Cornelius Le Fever, Jr.; overseer, Ivo Spilner; lecturer, Mrs. Arthur Merrihew; treasurer, Arthur Merrihew; steward, George Kennedy; lady assistant steward, Mrs. Floyd Deltz; Pamina, Mrs. Lilla Mollenbauer; Flora, Mrs. Elizabeth Hasbrouck; chaplain, Rev. James G. Cameron; gate keeper, Floyd Deltz; pianist, Mrs. Cornelius Le Fever; trustee, Walter Ortman.

Also the following officers from Hurley Grange:
Master, Brother Ostrander; lecturer, Sister Brink; steward, Brother Elmendorf; secretary, Sister Woolsey. Members were sorry that the balance of elected officers were not present, but were pleased to have district deputy State Master J. Wells Weaver and a number of Hurley and Clintondale Grange members present. Refreshments were served and a delightful evening was enjoyed by all.

Talked "Upside Down"

Bridge had been in the United States only a short time when Mrs. Brown employed her.
A few days after her arrival in the Brown home little Mary said: "Mother, why don't we have a cook who can talk?"
"What do you mean, dear?" asked her mother.
"Why, mother," replied Mary, "Bridge talks upside down and I cannot understand anything she says."

We are the supreme egoists and monopolists of creation. We go out and murder millions of our kind with scientific inventions yet we call a tiger bad because it occasionally kills the two-legged barbarian who hunts it.—American Magazine.
